

LIND CONFERS WITH BRITISH MINISTER

It Is Believed That Opinions of Two Men Regarding Mexican Problem Differ Widely

ENVOY'S STAY PROLONGED

Not Improbable That He Will Remain In Capital Until Final Settlement or Break
In Negotiations Is Recorded

BELIEVES NEGOTIATIONS NEAR END

MEXICO CITY, Mex., Nov. 7.—John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative in Mexico, was in conference here tonight for more than two hours with Sir Lionel Gordon, the British minister. Neither Mr. Lind nor Sir Lionel would repeat for publication the gist of their conversation but it is believed the opinions of the two men differ widely regarding the Mexican problem and the part the United States should play in its solution.

It developed tonight that Mr. Lind's stay in the capital would be longer than was anticipated. It is not improbable that he will remain here until either a final settlement or a break in the negotiations is recorded.

Unwilling to admit another failure on the part of Washington to bring about the elimination of President Huerta, John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative, nevertheless failed today to manifest any enthusiasm over the prospect of Huerta giving up office. From his manner and his conversation he indicated that he believes the negotiations are nearing an end.

There was nothing at the American embassy today to indicate that a more favorable turn in events is expected and there is reason to believe that an ultimatum in its full diplomatic sense, soon will be handed Huerta, the time limit being brief. It is expected that this new document will be written as to bring an end to the relations between the two countries before November 22, the date fixed for the convening of the new congress unless Huerta sees fit to agree to the terms of the Washington communication.

Saw No Government Official.
Mr. Lind today said no Mexican government official and probably will not see any during his stay in the capital which it is believed will be short. Mr. Lind had a long conference today with Nelson O'Shaughnessy the American charge d'affaires.

Silver was the most elusive thing in the capital today. The price of foreign exchange stiffened and a few merchants resorted to the plan of issuing vouchers in place of silver in making change.

The banks notes of some states were refused. This caused a slight panic among the holders of such paper. The credit slips issued by the mercantile houses have no legal standing and in many cases were refused. In cases where they were declined the business houses were forced to hand back the bank notes to would-be patrons without having made a sale. The credit slips are written on various sorts of paper on which appears in ink or pencil "Good for" with the amount due specified. Below this usually the merchants stamped the slip with an ordinary rubber stamp bearing the firm's name. In numerous instances these slips passed as currency not only at the house putting them out but in neighboring stores friendly to the store of issue. As yet the public has placed no premium on paper money.

Querido Mohena, the minister of foreign affairs, has evinced neither curiosity nor interest over Mr. Lind's coming to the capital. To the newspapermen he said today that it was a matter of no concern to him. He added that he knew of no diplomatic reasons for Mr. Lind's visit and declared that he did not expect to have any intercourse with him.

Speaking of the wounding of General Felix Diaz in Havana last night, Senor Mohena, attributed the attack upon Diaz to "fanatical followers of Carranza."

Cabinet Discusses Question.
The United States do in the event that the Provisional President Huerta refuses to resign? This question was discussed at length today in the cabinet meeting but no decision was announced. Formal reply to the latest American representations had not been received up to late today and until a definite answer comes it is not expected that there will be a determination of the policy to be pursued.

The discussion at the cabinet meeting turned, however, to various alternatives. Nothing concrete developed, it was said, nor were there any tangible conclusions, but members went away with fixed ideas of the determination of President Wilson that the American government should unwaveringly insist on the elimination of Huerta from the situation as the first step toward peace in the southern republic.

Lifting the embargo on arms so that the constitutionalists may obtain munitions of war was one of the principal suggestions taken under consideration but as yet there is no change in the neutrality attitude of the Washington government. Press despatches today announced

PREDICTS ENORMOUS FLOW OF IMMIGRANTS

MORRISON DECLARES LARGE NUMBERS WILL COME VIA PANAMA CANAL

Secretary of Federation of Labor Denounces Taft for Vetoing Immigration Bill Passed a Year Ago and Employers Who Opposed It.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 7.—Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, addressing the Western Labor Immigration Congress today denounced former President Taft for vetoing the immigration bill passed a year ago and declared that employers who opposed the bill were bent on "tearing down the civilization of the country to fatten their own purses."

Two hundred delegates were present, representing all the states west of the Mississippi river. Morrison predicted an enormous flow of European immigrants to the Pacific coast through the Panama canal.

"When these strangers come—500,000 to 800,000 of them the first year, perhaps," he said, "they will have to find work. If they can't get $3 a day, they take 50c or just enough to buy bread and avoid starvation. By admitting these people you are not only hurting yourselves but the nations from which they came. If conditions are bad there the only way they will ever be bettered will be by forcing the dissatisfied workers to remain and fight their own way to victory."

The national convention of the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor instructed its executive council to prepare resolutions for presentation before the convention of the federation dealing with the jurisdiction of the machinists' union over machinery manufactured in unorganized shops; calling for the elimination of the physical examination now in vogue at United States navy yards, suggesting certain amendments to the federal eight hour law and promulgating methods of dealing with several so-called unfair firms.

ENGINEER WRECKS PART OF TRAIN TO SAVE TRAMP'S LIFE

Sees Man Roll Down Bluff and Land Between Rails—Stop Is So Sudden That Several Cars Buckle.

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 7.—Charles Hayes, engineer of a Missouri Pacific freight train, wrecked a portion of his train today while saving the life of a tramp. The accident occurred near Morrison, thirty-five miles east of here. A tramp was sleeping on the side of a bluff overlooking the track and had rolled down the steep incline and landed between the rails. As Hayes' train approached, the engineer saw the rolling tramp. He applied the emergency brakes just in time to prevent the train striking the man. So sudden was the stop made that several of the cars buckled and a car loaded with furniture was smashed.

The tramp got up, rubbed his eyes and disappeared before the train crew could get his name. None of the trainmen were injured.

HUMAN CUSHION SAVES LIFE.

Danville, Ill., Nov. 7.—A human cushion saved the life of Louis Huntley when he was struck by a Wabash switch engine near Tilton, today. Switchman Ables, who was standing upon the front footboard of the engine, received the impact of Huntley's body which was shunted to one side of the track and escaped the wheels.

Both men were taken to a hospital but neither is fatally injured.

WEATHER INDICATIONS AND TEMPERATURES.

Washington, Nov. 7.—For Illinois: Fair in south, rain in north Saturday, followed by fair, colder; Sunday fair, brisk to high northwest winds.

Temperatures.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Current, maximum and minimum temperatures today were:

	Current	High	Low
Boston	54	70	44
Buffalo	62	68	54
New York	54	64	46
New Orleans	70	80	64
Chicago	57	65	52
Detroit	54	66	48
Omaha	40	54	48
St. Paul	38	50	48
St. Helena	44	46	34
San Francisco	70	72	64
Winnipeg	34	36	32

ing to an extent, Huerta's purpose of rejecting the American demands made no impression on government officials. They had no official communication to that effect and would not comment they said, until they had.

Dispatches from Berlin stating that Germany would consider a movement to bring the powers in support of the American policy only if such a step were desired by the Washington government led to the belief in many quarters that some movement might yet be developed in the situation to convince Huerta of the force of the American viewpoint.

Secretary Bryan declined to discuss this or any other phase of the situation.

MRS. STEWART CAUSES SENSATION AT PEORIA

ANNOUNCES THAT SHE IS NOT A CANDIDATE FOR SUFFRAGE HEAD

Withdrawal Apparently Leaves Field Clear For Mrs. Trout's Re-election—Chicago Will Undoubtedly Get the Next Convention.

PEORIA, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Ella S. Stewart of Chicago caused a sensation in the Illinois Equal Suffrage association convention here today by announcing that she was not a candidate for the presidency. She had been named as a rival of Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout, the present incumbent who is a candidate for re-election at the final session tomorrow. Mrs. Stewart's withdrawal apparently leaves the field clear for Mrs. Trout's re-election. Chicago will undoubtedly get the next convention. The question of adopting a constitution is a leading one for tomorrow's session. Two drafts have been submitted with many conflicting points.

It was planned that representatives of the five leading political parties should address the convention at the session this afternoon. The Republican and Democratic representatives appeared. The socialists were represented by a volunteer orator from those present in the hall, while Dan R. Sheen of Peoria spoke for the prohibitionists and Thomas S. Knight for the Progressives.

Mr. Knight made a vigorous plea for the suffrage vote to unite in its entirety with his party.

Mrs. George Bass, president of the Chicago Women's club, made the claim that the women of the United States would control three-fourths of the vote of the country and expressed surprise that representatives of the two great parties of the country did not see fit to attend the convention in view of her belief that in the future the women would be in control.

This evening a reception was tendered the 400 visiting delegates during which Senator John Dailey made a short address.

STUDENT SENDS MISSOURI SIGNALS TO RIVAL ELEVEN

Coach of Iowa Agricultural College Tells Missouri Coach of Receiving Letter Which Was Not Opened Until After Game.

Columbia, Mo., Nov. 7.—A letter from Clyde Williams, coach of the Iowa Agricultural College football eleven saying a student had sent the signals of the University of Missouri football team in part to Ames before the Ames-Missouri game on October 25th, was received by Coach Brewer of the University of Missouri football team today.

Coach Williams wrote that some of the plays and signals of the Missouri team had been mailed to the Ames captain by a student of the Missouri University who had bet heavily on Ames to win from Missouri. Coach Williams said the letter had not been opened until after the game and that Ames had no idea what the letter contained or whom it was from.

University authorities announced an investigation would be begun at once. The coaches said they were confident Missouri was not practicing sent from here in spite of the order each night.

APPEAL FOR AID TO PREVENT MASSACRE OF AGENCY FORCE

Indians Threaten to Kill Whites at Shiprock Agency Unless Prosecution of Indian Outlaws Is Dropped.

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 7.—An appeal for aid to prevent the massacre of the Indian agency force at Shiprock, on the Navajo reservation in northwestern New Mexico, was received by U. S. Marshal A. H. Dudspeith today from Agent W. T. Shelton. A telegram from the agent says the Indians threatened to kill the whites at the agency next Monday, unless the government drops the prosecution of eleven Indian outlaws indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of riot and assault.

A force of deputy sheriffs and deputy United States marshals will be sent to the reservation tomorrow. The officers being sent to the Navajo Indian reservation will carry high powered rifles and a large supply of ammunition and will be prepared for any emergency. Agent W. T. Shelton reported to the marshal's office tonight that the situation is grave. It is said that the Indian bureau has notified the war department of the situation and that two troops of United States cavalry are now enroute to the reservation from Fort Apache, Ariz.

MASON ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 7.—Former United States Senator William E. Mason, who was in the city today on business in the supreme court, stated that he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator to succeed Lawrence Y. Sherman in 1915.

MOR LYNCHES NEGRO.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 7.—A mob broke down the doors of the Dyersburg jail today, removed John Talley, a negro, 18 years old, and lynched him in the court house yard, according to a message received here. The negro was accused of attempted criminal assault, and after his arrest was identified, it was said.

SHIFT STRENGTHENS WILSON'S FORCES

Committee Is Left In Temporary Deadlock On Prospect to Reconsider Regional Bank Plan

HITCHCOCK REMAINS FIRM

Votes Down Proposal to Force Double Liability On Stock of the Proposed Regional Banks—Defeat Crawford's Plan

CAUCUS MOVEMENT GAINS MOMENTUM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—A shift in the line-up in the currency bill today strengthened the position of the administration forces, but left the senate committee in a temporary deadlock. Senators Reid and O'Gorman, who have been opposing administration proposals in the committee, rejoined the Democrats and the committee voted to reconsider the decision which cut down from twelve to four the number of regional banks in the proposed new system.

Senator Crawford (Republican) voted with the Democrats to reconsider but a debate failed to force a vote. Senator Crawford said he had voted to reconsider solely as a matter of courtesy.

Senator Hitchcock made it plain that he would not swing in line with the other Democrats and with a six to six tie in prospect the vote was not taken.

The committee voted down a proposal to force a double liability similar to that of present national bank stockholders on the stock of the proposed regional banks. The section of the present bill which would force all national banks into the system under penalty of losing their charters within a year was changed.

National banks, under the amendment, would be required to signify their intention of entering the system within sixty days. Banks which are at present reserve agents and which fail to enter the new system within 90 days would forfeit their reserve agencies.

Defeat Crawford's Proposal.
The committee voted down a proposal by Senator Crawford to allow the regional banks to be created, to do a general commercial banking business. With the committee hard at work, but tied up on the fundamentals of the bill the movement for a caucus of Democratic senators gained momentum again. A petition was circulated by Senators Ashurst and Martine of New Jersey, calling for a conference on the currency question generally. No detailed directions were included in the call. It was understood that the real subject of the caucus and its scope in relation to the work of the committee would be decided after it met. Administration senators, including Senator Owen, declared that they had taken no part in starting the call for a conference and it was stated that the administration was not behind the call.

Sensor Kern, the chairman of the Democratic caucus, to whom the call is directed, left Washington today. He will not return until Monday and the call will be presented to him then.

Talk of rather bitter feeling among members of the committee and reported outbursts during the sessions, cropped out today. It was asserted that one member of the committee on the Democratic side had threatened to leave the committee room and refuse to participate in the deliberations after Chairman Owen had made a speech urging support for administration proposals.

FIND WEALTHY MERCHANT GUILTY OF MURDERING WIFE AND DAUGHTER

W. A. Borah Is Sentenced to Life Imprisonment—Bodies Were Found in Ruins of Borah Home.

Atoka, Okla., Nov. 7.—W. A. Borah, a wealthy merchant, was tonight found guilty of murdering his wife and their daughter and sentenced to life imprisonment. The bodies of the victims were found in the ruins of the Borah home after a fire on the night of August 30 last. Borah escaped from the burning house in his night clothes.

The Borah home was in Tishomingo, where Borah had served as mayor and where his wife was a society leader. His daughter was 12 years old. The state contended Borah killed his wife and child and then set fire to the house to hide his crime. Shortly after Borah's arrest a wealthy Wichita girl announced she was engaged to marry him. This created feeling against Borah and on two occasions it was necessary for officers to hurry him from jails where he was confined, because of fear of mob violence.

CONVICT CHAUFFEUR.

Winfield, Kans., Nov. 7.—A Kansas jury today convicted J. H. McElhinney, 25 years old, a chauffeur, of manslaughter in connection with the death, Sept. 15th, last, of C. G. Dohrer, who was killed in a motor car accident. McElhinney was the driver of the car in which Dohrer and a party of friends were riding when the machine struck a buggy and Dohrer was killed. Witnesses declared the motorists were speeding.

HOLD UP JUSTICE OF PEACE.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Joseph Zlotosky, justice of the peace of Cicero, a suburb was robbed of $2,250 by a two holdup men here tonight. Zlotosky's life was saved by his star. When he attempted resistance one of the men fired a revolver at him. The bullet struck the star and dropped to the sidewalk and the men escaped.

JURY TO GET CASE TUESDAY.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—The case of Attorney Daniel Donahue and Detective Isaac Steffel charged with having conspired to defame Clarence S. Funk will go to the jury next Tuesday, according to the predictions of attorneys after the presentation of evidence closed today. Judge Pam refused for the second time to take the case away from the jury and direct a verdict of not guilty.

GRAND JURY RETURNS FORTY INDICTMENTS

BILLS AGAINST SALOON OWNERS CHARGE ILLEGAL SALE OF LIQUOR

Each Indictment Returned by Madison County Jury Contains 25 to 32 Counts, the Sale of Each Drink Being Specified as a Violation of the Law.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 7.—Forty indictments charging the illegal sale of liquor were returned against saloon owners by the grand jury of Madison county, Illinois, which submitted its final report to Judge Geo. A. Crow at Edwardsville today.

Each indictment contains 25 to 32 counts, the sale of each drink being specified as a violation of the law. The minimum fine for each violation is $100. The saloons mentioned in the indictments are scattered throughout the prohibition zone of two miles radius which surrounds every municipality in Illinois.

According to the laws of Illinois the sale of liquor is prohibited within two miles of the limits of an incorporated city, although dramshops, licenses are issued for the sale of liquor within the city and beyond the two mile limit. The prohibition zone law, however, has been violated flagrantly for many years.

The wholesale indictments returned today are the first broadside fired by State's Attorney J. M. Bundy in his avowed war of extermination of illicit roadhouses in Madison county.

TESTIFIES SHE GAVE RYAN $15,000 TO INVEST FOR HER

Mrs. McElowney Declares Clairvoyant Convinced Her She Was Followed by a Bad Influence That Would Make Investment Through Any Other Means Unsuccessful.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Hope McElowney of West Salem, Wis., testified today that she had given James Ryan, a clairvoyant, known as "Professor Crane" $15,000 to invest for her after Ryan had convinced her that she was followed by a bad influence that would make investment through any other means unsuccessful. Mrs. McElowney is the chief witness against Ryan and C. P. Berthsch, a saloon keeper charged with swindling her out of $15,000.

Mrs. McElowney answered Ryan's advertisement in a newspaper she said. After one or two visits, she became convinced that a "bad influence" was following her. She gave two drafts, she testified, one for $2,500 and one for $12,500.

"This was to be invested in Great Northern railroad bonds," she testified. "He said that he and his father had been in conference with a representative of James J. Hill for several days and were in a position to buy a large number of bonds cheap. No one else could get in on the ground floor as he could, he said."

The drafts were identified in court. Mrs. McElowney will continue her testimony tomorrow.

Berthsch is said to have been the controlling figure among all the clairvoyants here. Mrs. Charles Elsner from whom Ryan rented rooms, testified she had found Berthsch in the hall listening at the door of Ryan's room.

"Listen to the booby," he said," she testified.

ISSUES REPORT ON DISASTER.

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 7.—In an official report made public today, State Mine Inspector Rees H. Beddow, who investigated the mine disaster at Dawson on Oct. 22, in which 261 miners and two helmet men lost their lives, declares that the explosion which wrecked the mine was due to the firing of an overcharged shot in one of the rooms by a miner, which in turn stirred up and ignited the coal dust in the surrounding workings causing a second and more terrific explosion from the trolly where the victims were.

During working hours, when the full shift was at work in the mine, according to the report, which was contrary to the mining laws and to the rules of the company.

GIRL BOUND AND GAGGED SELE.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Gertrude Hanson, 16 years old, who was found today bound and gagged, lying in the cellar of the home of O. V. Jahns with a pile of rubbish burning near her, confessed to the police that she had set fire to the rubbish and bound and gagged herself. She said she had set the fire for the purpose of creating a little excitement.

The girl was uninjured by the blaze, although nearly unconscious from smoke.

WARN WHITMAN TO STOP.

New York, Nov. 7.—It was learned tonight that District Attorney Whitman had been warned over the telephone to halt the graft inquiry.

"You'd better stop this thing; you're best friends may be involved if you don't," said a man who did not disclose his identity.

"If I can stand against Jack Rose and that gang I guess I can stand against this new gang," was Mr. Whitman's comment.

RICHARD YATES NAMED MEMBER OF COMMISSION

SUCCEEDS B. A. ECKHART ON RAILROAD AND WAREHOUSE BODY

It Is Understood That He Will Be Elevated To Utilities Commission When It Is Named Early Next Year—Colvin Appointed To Board of Pardons

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 7.—Former Governor Richard Yates, Springfield, a Republican, was today named by Governor Dunne as minority member of the state board of pardons with a salary of $3,000. He succeeds G. del Kinney of Peoria, Republican.

Charles W. Elliott, Galesburg, was appointed a member of the board of managers of Pontiac reformatory to succeed Charles H. May of Peoria, removed. Mr. Elliott is a Progressive and a brother of Robert A. Elliott, a member of the lower house of the state legislature.

George W. Dowell, DuQuoin was appointed judge of the state court of claims vice Robert McMurdy, Chicago, resigned. Both Dowell and McMurdy are Democrats.

Governor Dunne spent most of the day at the executive mansion in conference with County Treasurer O'Connell of Chicago.

BELIEVE MCCOMBS WILL ACCEPT AMBASSADORSHIP TO FRANCE

Persons Close to the White House Give Out Statement—Has Declined Offer Twice.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Persons close to the White House said tonight that William F. McCombs, chairman of the Democratic national committee who was married in London today to Miss Dorothy Williams, would accept President Wilson's offer of the ambassadorship to France. The post has been open to Mr. McCombs ever since the inauguration. He has twice declined it but there is every expectation now that he will soon send the president word of his acceptance. In political circles it was generally believed that Mr. McCombs would become ambassador to France and resign the chairmanship of the Democratic National committee. Talk of a successor is being heard and the name of Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the president, has been suggested by national commitment in Washington. It was pointed out by some of those who are suggesting Mr. Tumulty that it would be essential in the choice of national chairman to have some one who had the personal confidence of the president.

Mr. Tumulty himself declined to talk about the subject. As the Democrat national chairman is not called up for any extended work until the time arrives for the presidential campaign, acceptance of the post by Mr. Tumulty would not necessarily involve resigning his present position.

TWO KILLED WHEN FREIGHT TRAIN WRECKS AUTOMOBILE

Two Others Are Dying in an Erie Hospital From Injuries Received in Accident.

Erie, Pa., Nov. 7.—Gerald Richardson, son of John H. Richardson, a wealthy department store owner and prominent Pennsylvanian, and Eleanor Kennedy of Bradford, Pa., were crushed to death tonight when a freight train on the Erie & Pittsburgh railroad wrecked an automobile driven by Richardson on the West Lake road crossing near here.

Irvin McMullen, owner of a local theater, and Beatrice Treavold, of this city, other members of the party, are dying in a local hospital from injuries. It is believed that a drizzling rain blurred the wind shield of the automobile and Richardson was unable to see the train.

DEPUTY CONSTABLE KILLS MAN.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 7.—Harry Levin a deputy constable today shot and instantly killed Fred Hesse on a crowded street. Hesse had been driven by the constable to the front steps of a physician's office and just as the physician opened the door to what the trouble was, a shot was fired and Hesse fell dead. Levin after being arrested said he killed Hesse in self defense. The physician said Hesse had a hammer in his hand when he fell dead.

WARN WHITMAN TO STOP.

New York, Nov. 7.—It was learned tonight that District Attorney Whitman had been warned over the telephone to halt the graft inquiry.

"You'd better stop this thing; you're best friends may be involved if you don't," said a man who did not disclose his identity.

FULTON, Mo., Nov. 7.—The jury in the trial of Edward Wilson, on a charge of murder, was discharged tonight after deliberating fifty-four hours. The jury agreed on a verdict of guilty of first degree murder but five of the men held out for capital punishment while seven stood for life imprisonment.

INDIANAPOLIS CAR STRIKE IS SETTLED

Employees Win Demand for Arbitration But Nothing Is Said About Recognition of Union

TO RESUME CAR SERVICE

Terms Also Provide Against Any Further Interference With Operation of Cars ---To Reinstall Strikers

SOLDIERS WILL BE SENT HOME

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 7.—The strike of the employees of the Indianapolis Traction and Terminal company which began a week ago was settled late today through the efforts of Governor Samuel M. Ralston.

The employees won their demand for arbitration but nothing is said about recognition of the union in the terms of settlement.

Street car service is to be resumed within twelve hours, according to the terms of the settlement of the strike which also provides against any further interference with the operation of cars.

All the men who were in the employ of the company night October 31st, when the strike was called and all employees who had been discharged on account of joining the union are to be reinstated by the company with full seniority rights and without prejudice. The company however, is not compelled to reinstate men who engaged in violence during the strike but the refused men may appeal to the public utility commission of Indiana for a hearing.

Disputes and grievances as to wages, hours, conditions and service will be referred to the utilities commission for arbitration if the company and employees fail to reach a mutual agreement within ten days. The company must take up these grievances with its employees within five days after the resumption of service. The utilities commission by the terms of settlement must render a decision, which shall be binding on all parties interested for three years.

In addition to the union officials and traction company officers the agreement was signed by Ethelbert Stewart representing the United States government and Governor Samuel Ralston for the state of Indiana. As a result of the settlement of the strike the 2,000 members of the Indiana National Guard who were detailed to Indianapolis yesterday, on order of the governor for strike duty, will be dispatched to their home stations as soon as possible.

The soldiers were not called on to do duty but will remain in their temporary quarters until they start home.

During the strike four persons were killed and a hundred or more, including several police officers were injured.

Much damage was done to property of the traction company.

Both sides claim victory in the settlement of the strike. The union officials declare that, while they are disappointed in that they did not obtain recognition of the union they obtained their man contention which was demanded for arbitration of all disputes between the employees and the company. The railway company asserts it won in its fight not to recognize the union.

SERIOUS CATARRH

YIELDS TO HYOMEL

Do not let this serious disease extend along the delicate mucous membrane, gradually going from the nose, into the throat, thence into the bronchial tubes and downward until the lungs are reached.

There is no other treatment for catarrh that is like Hyomel or just as good. None can take its place, none give such quick, effective and sure relief and at so little cost—furthermore your money will be refunded if you are not benefited. Hyomel, as sold by all druggists, reaches the most remote cells of the air passages, kills the catarrhal germs, soothes and heals the irritated mucous membrane.

Begin its use now—today, and see how quickly the droppings into the throat, the discharges from the nose, sniffling and all other symptoms of catarrh are overcome; and remember—no stomach drugging—you breathe it. The complete outfit containing inhaler and bottle of liquid costs but $1.00. Extra bottles of liquid, if later needed, 50 cents each.

JOHN F. BAKER HOLDS SALE.
John F. Baker of the Yatesville neighborhood held a public sale Friday at which stock and farm implements sold for good prices. Mr. Baker expects soon to have with him family to Jacksonville. Charles M. Strawn of Alexander was the auctioneer and Walter Holmes was clerk. His horses averaged about $175 and cows about $45.00. Shots brought $11.10. Farm implements brought good prices as did household goods.

QUINCY PROVED EASY FOR J. H. S.

VISITORS TAKEN INTO CAMP TO TUNE OF 33 TO 7.

Contest Was Played on Semi-Muddy Field Which Made Fumbling Frequent—Gem City Lads Came Back Strong in Last Half of Game.

Quincy High school eleven proved an easy proposition to the local J. H. S. team on Illinois field Friday afternoon, the score being 33 to 7. Jacksonville held the visitors at bay until the fourth quarter when they scored their only touchdown by the use of a forward pass. The game was played in a semi-muddy field which prevented fast playing and fumbles were frequent throughout the game. Despite the muddy field, however, there were some brilliant plays, in which Killbrow and Haigh made spectacular runs. Along side of his there were some comical situations and mix-ups, sliding and slipping in all directions. A player would start with the ball and by the time he made a couple of slips he was down in his tracks. In one play Quincy used a forward pass and the fellow slipped and while sitting on the ground caught the oval, winning a glad hand from the crowd. Killbrow's 53-yard run around Quincy's left end and Haigh's catch of Quincy's kick-off on the 70 yard line and his marvelous run for a touchdown was some of the spectacular work of the locals.

Jacksonville had everything her own way in the first half of the game. Quincy answered to have an attack of stage fright and seemed to be running around in all parts of the lot to find the ball. They found themselves in the second and third quarters and had they put up as plucky an exhibition the first half of the contest, the score would have been more in their favor. With the score 26 to 0 against them the visitors began tackling better and at times revealed some splendid team work.

Jacksonville's enterprise for the game was shown by the "rooters' club" and they certainly outdid themselves. A stranger on the sideline was heard to remark that that was "the best high school rooting I ever heard." And then too, Supt. Gore had out his high school band of twenty-five pieces, who played before the game and during the quarters. It has been many a day in Jacksonville since patrons of a football game had the privilege of hearing a band.

Story of Quarters.
Jacksonville got the kick-off in the loss up and defended the west goal. Quincy lost the ball on a fumble. Rudy kicked for Quincy and Berry and Wood divided honors in getting a fumble on the 20 yard line. Jacksonville worked the ball down with steady gains when L. P. Woods went over for a touchdown. Reynolds failed to kick goal, score 6 to 0. J. H. S. again kicked off to the 30 yard line and Quincy kicked and Illinois blocked the kick and in the next play lost the ball on a fumble. Quincy made a small gain on an end run and when Jacksonville recovered the ball on a fumble by a succession of end runs and line plunges in which Haigh and Killbrow carried the ball, Killbrow was sent over for the second touchdown. Reynolds kicking goal, score 13 to 0. The remainder of the quarter saw the ball carried up and down the field and Sutherland broke loose for a good end run when time was called.

The second quarter opened auspiciously for the locals, when Killbrow succeeded in getting a long run of 53 yards, thanks to some spectacular interference by his teammates, and went over for a touchdown. Reynolds failed to kick goal, score 19 to 0. The second and last touchdown of the quarter came when Reynolds, quarterback, gobbled up a forward pass and on the 25 yards line and evading his pursuers went around Quincy's right end for a touchdown. Reynolds' toe was truer this time and a successful kick made the score 26 to 0.

Second Half.
Capt. Haigh set a fast pace for the J. H. S. men when he caught the oval kicked off by Williams. In a sensational run of 70 yards he registered a touch down, and with Reynolds kicking a successful goal the score stood 33 to 0. This was the last of the Jacksonville's scoring. The remainder of the quarter witnessed some hard scrapping on the part of Quincy. The visitors by a succession of end runs, punts and line plunges succeeded in working the ball up to Jacksonville's five yard line when Quincy fumbled, and Killbrow kicked out of danger, just at the quarter ended.

The fourth quarter proved successful to Quincy. They began to use the forward pass more and favored by a couple of penalties to Jacksonville worked the ball down to Jax's ten yard line. Here both teams played for everything that was in them. Quincy made two attempts to make gains when they were held back by the strong J. H. S. Jacksonville expected the Quincy lads to give another line plunge but instead a forward pass was called and a pretty one was executed from Markus to Sinner. The ball was booted out and Wheeler kicked a successful goal, score 33 to 7. Quincy again kicked off and after Quincy tried to make their gains resorted to a kick. Jacksonville again worked the ball up to Quincy's ten yard line when the visitors held them for a down. Quincy kicked out of danger. J. H. S. made a big attempt to get the ball over before the whistle blew but Quincy braced up and there was nothing doing for the locals.

Markus was easily the star of the visitors and played a great game and close in his tracks was Capt. Wheeler, whose work was certainly complimentary. While the work of Killbrow was as usual fine, Southard played an excellent game and so did Johnson. Berryman is one of the wonderful players on this year's team and his breaking through the line and all around work deserves special mention. Haigh had to be taken out before the game was over and H. Williamson took his place.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE.
Mr. and Mrs. E. G. McFadden recently returned to the home of Mr. McFadden's father John McFadden, in the northwest part of the county after a pleasant wedding trip and Wednesday evening the senior McFadden asked Mrs. McFadden Jr. to pop some corn and as he wanted a lot of it he thought he would have the dining room table cleared.

While the young woman was busy at the corn and the white material was piling up in the pans Mr. McFadden went to the door and heard the foot of an automobile horn and at once he knew his guests had arrived without the knowledge of the young people and in a moment or two over fifty friends swarmed into the room taking the couple completely by surprise.

As soon as they saw what was up they surrendered at discretion and all proceeded to have a good time. The popcorn was removed from the table and it was completely occupied with presents brought by admiring friends and gladly received and thankfully acknowledged by the young people beginning the journey of life together.

The evening was delightfully enjoyed and the hours were employed in various ways. The elder McFadden had prepared ample refreshments and these were fully enjoyed and at a late hour the guests departed with many good wishes for the young people so happily surprised and they have a tithe of the good wishes they received realized the will surely be happy.

MENTIONS MORGAN CO. STOCK RAISERS.

The Chicago Live Stock World of Thursday has the following to say of local stock raisers: "Arthur Swain of Morgan county had on Wednesday's market a car of cattle and one of hogs, all his own feeding. The cattle sold for $8.95 and the hogs for $7.85. Mr. Swain is said to be a model man, as he doesn't swear, drink, or use tobacco in any form."

"P. E. Drury of Morgan county had 43 Angus calves on yesterday's market that sold for $9.50 and averaged 19-1 pounds."

In the same issue it is made that James M. Hembrough of this county sold two car loads of fat cattle averaging 1556 at $9.10.

Reading these notes all in one issue of a livestock paper certainly emphasizes the fact that farmers of Morgan county have not by any means stopped raising good cattle.

NATIONAL CONVENTION OF ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

The national convention of the Anti-Saloon league will be held in Columbus, Ohio, the coming week. It is expected that there will be present from 10,000 to 20,000 delegates. Some have signified their intentions of attending from Jacksonville. A special train on the Wabash will leave here Monday morning at 8:20 and at Logansport, Ind., a change will be made to the Pennsylvania road. This will get the delegates into Columbus at 9 o'clock ready for Tuesday and Wednesday's programs. Those who wish accommodations at Columbus can have the same secured in advance by getting in communication with Edward Scott McBride, 1200 Security building, Chicago.

DIRECTING CEMETERY WORK.
Since the death of James Owen, sexton of Diamond Grove cemetery Mayor Davis has been directing all the work there and in fact is in actual charge. Years ago the mayor was an employee there and so he knows from experience how affairs should be conducted and besides has always been especially interested in keeping the cemeteries up in good condition. Mayor Davis said yesterday he would probably follow this plan during the winter at least and that by so handling it he could save the city about $40 a month.

WILL BE GUESTS AT GAME.
Through the courtesy of the Athletic association of Illinois college the members of the Quincy High school football team and the other Quincy visitors and the members of the Jacksonville High school team will be guests of honor at the Millikin-Illinois football game this afternoon.

HISTORY IS REPEATING ITSELF

We have since establishing our store carried THE VERY FINEST NUTS that have come to this market. There is a vast difference in nuts and it is our policy to offer our customers THE VERY HIGHEST QUALITY. They have especially fine flavor and sweetness and the shells are thin and crisp. This season we are duplicating the accomplishments of former years and if you will take a look in our east window you will see the very finest nuts that have been grown for this year's trade.

ALMONDS, PECANS, BLACK WALNUTS, BRAZILIANS, HICKORY NUTS, they are all there and if you see them then you'll know that the nuts shipped us have certainly been selected from vast stocks. They have not come to us mixed with stones and bark or in damp sacks. These nuts show not only that they are the best of their kind but that they have been carefully and scientifically handled, in the way to put them into the best possible market condition.

Special Bargain in Peas

We are offering AN EXTRA BARGAIN in Trio brand peas. They were canned by a small packer who did not separate the large and small ones. However he was careful about the quality and you will find each can choked full of sweet, tender, fine flavored peas, not a hard one among them. We bought these excellent peas in such a way that we can offer them at a VERY SPECIAL PRICE BY THE CASE. The figure is LOWER THAN USUALLY OFFERED BY BIG JOBBERS to the trade. We have only a limited supply. If you are interested COME IN AND ASK THE PRICE and you will certainly buy.

ILLINOIS TAKES LAST SCRIMMAGE

PUT ON FINISHING TOUCHES FOR BIG GAME.

Millikin University Will Send Over Strong Team To Take Home Bacon—Keithley and Mathews To Be Officials—Students Hold Mass Meeting.

Coach Harmon sent his eleven through their last practice Friday night in preparation for the big game this afternoon at 2:30 against the strong Millikin university team of Decatur. All kinds of state championship team bees have been buzzing around the camps of Millikin and Illinois and the outcome of today's game will go a long way toward solving the problem of "Who is Who" in the colleges of the state. Millikin has a strong team and they are lightning fast. Coach Ashmore has been taking particular pains to give his men the best training for the fray this afternoon. Every weak spot in his squad has been strengthened and he has also been injecting into them that "pep" which is so essential in winning a game. The coach claims that was what trouble his team when he took them over to Williams and Vashti where they lost the contest. It is now a case of licking Illinois or else the championship honors go fleeting. Millikin have some pretty good sized men, hard tacklers and fast runners. As their team lines up Wilson, McConnel, McDonald at full back; Adair and Holcomb, ends; Reeder and Hessler, guards; Hinds at center; Catlin and Stokes at tackles; Harrackman and McWherter are giving Stokes a hard run for the tackle position, as their reversal of form during the last two days has greatly pleased Coach Ashmore. The Decatur paper says: "That Millikin will go to Jacksonville stocked full of tricks and with all of the men trained to a high pitch. The players realize what it means to defeat Jacksonville, and they will go in the game fighting the best they know how." Coach Ashmore is confident that his men will put up a brilliant game. Millikin expects to use a number of new plays and formations which they have worked out the past week. Quarterback Wilson is one of the star men of the visitor and is a place kicker of ability. In practice he kicked goal easily from the 38 yards line and Millikin sees a victory for points along the aerial route.

Coach Harmon believes his men are in the best possible condition and that Millikin will find in them a worthy foe. Barring accidents the game promises to be a tight one from start to finish. Only the best condition of the grounds will prevent a brilliant contest.

The game will be refereed by Keithley of Peoria and Mathews of Champaign will umpire. Coach Harmon has announced the following line-up:

McLaughlin, ls; Mitchell, lt; Russell, ls; Maxey, c; Daragh, rg; Frisbee, rt; Pierce, re; Stewart of Gary qb; Spruit, lb; Wilson, rh; Alford, fb.

Mold Mass Meeting.
The students held a mass meeting in the gymnasium last night. Speeches were made by Prof. Whisler, T. P. Carter, Capt. Alford, Wilson, Stewart and Mitchell, players on the team, and Coach Harmon. The band was present and gave some spirited music. The meeting gained impetus when the girls marched in bearing a banner saying, "Get Millikin's goat."

MAL BE CONTEST OVER OFFICE IN FRANKLIN
E. D. Scott Chosen Justice of Peace By One Vote Over W. N. Luttrell—Errors in Crediting Votes To Mr. Scott Are Claimed.

A peculiar situation exists which may prove grounds for a contest in the election for Justice of the peace at Franklin last Tuesday. The first column on the ticket contains the names of W. C. Hart and E. D. Scott, and on the second column and opposite to the name of Mr. Hart is the name of W. N. Luttrell. Several ballots it is said were marked with a cross in the circle at the top of the Democratic column and a cross in the square in front of the name of Mr. Luttrell on the Republican ticket. It is claimed that the judges counted the second name on the first ticket and one vote for Mr. Luttrell.

The returns indicate that Mr. Scott was elected over Mr. Luttrell by one vote. It is claimed by the friends of Mr. Luttrell that the ballots marked as described should have been credited to him only, and none for either of his competitors, as the intention of the voter was not clear as to which of the others he wished to vote, if for either of them.

THIEVES ENTER RALSTON STORE AT FRANKLIN

Burglars Secured a Large Quantity of Shoes and Men's Suits—Dogs Fail to Locate Guilty Parties.

Some time Thursday night thieves entered the store of J. O. Ralston at Franklin and secured a large quantity of shoes and clothing. The Strumter blood hounds from Springfield were secured and an effort was made to locate the guilty parties. One trail led to the rear of the premises, which gave a clue that the thieves must have had a rig there and entered it. Another clue was some railroad irons which had been taken from a car. The dogs were given the scent from these and this led them some 30 or 40 yards from the railroad track when the scent was lost. The irons were secured to gain a entrance to the building, however, the thieves got in by taking a glass out of the back door. They stole twenty-three pairs of shoes and eight or ten good suits of clothing, of the makes of J. Capps & Sons of this city and Mayer Bros. of Chicago. Mr. Ralston is also of the opinion that they took some other smaller articles which he could not miss readily. Various towns and cities around have been notified and the proprietor of the store still believes that he will run down the guilty parties.

HELD SPELLING BEE.
Art Exhibition and Pound Social Also Part of Woodson Entertainment.

An old fashioned spelling bee was held at Woodson Friday evening and in connection with it an art exhibition and a pound social. The school house was packed to the doors and the contestants in spelling represented teams from the eighth grade of the schools of Woodson and Murrayville. The words were given out by Miss Vena Lawson, assistant principal of the Murrayville schools. So thoroughly had the students prepared for the bee that the teams could not be spelled down before the Murrayville team had to leave in order to catch a train home.

The art exhibit consisted of 450 pieces, among them hand paintings on various colored cushions, representing work of the eighth grade. Miss Florence Fox of this city has charge of the art work. The exhibition was most creditable and the work would easily do honor to pupils much older.

Other entertainment consisted of the children singing all kinds of old fashioned songs and there were readings by Misses Helen Crouse, Esther Osborne and Alma Mutch of Murrayville and also music from the primary grade of which Miss Meda Gallagher is supervisor.

Each guest present bought a pound lunch and these were auctioned off, a neat sum being realized.

DISCUSSED SUBJECT OF LIGHTING CITY

SEVERAL ADDRESSES MADE FOR BETTERING CONDITIONS.

Meeting Held Under Auspices of the Brotherhood of the Congregational Church—Commissioner Brennan Favors Municipal Ownership—Supt. W. B. Miser and H. J. Rodgers Among Speakers.

At the Congregation church Friday evening the Brotherhood of the church listened to a discussion of the lighting question by Commissioner Brennan, Supt. W. B. Miser and H. J. Rodgers. The brotherhood held their supper at 6:30 in the church parlors and adjourned at 7:30 to the audience room where a number had gathered to hear the speakers. J. P. Lippincott, L. S. Doane and A. D. Fairbank were the committee of arrangements.

The first speaker was Commissioner Brennan, who was introduced by Chairman L. R. Penfield and said in part:

"I take it for granted that every citizen of Jacksonville is interested in a well lighted city. Although there are many opinions as to the most feasible method to secure better light, I for my part am in favor of a plant owned and operated by the city. I disagree with those who argue that it would be cheaper to buy current from a public utility. The lighting system at present, with 63 lamps out of commission and the equipment depreciating all the time is a municipal disgrace. Our street lamps are so old and out of date that they are going out of commission faster than they can be repaired but I have done my best with them. In my opinion the only way by which the lighting system may be improved is by a bond issue."

Mr. Brennan gave statistics as to the assessed property valuation of the city, the total indebtedness, and the possible amount of bonded indebtedness. A bond issue of $50,000, he said, would entail an increase in taxation of but 13 cents on the hundred dollars. Such an issue would not exceed the legal limit, as 5 per cent of the assessed valuation of property, less the debt already on hand, would be $69,945.53, the total amount of bonded indebtedness it is possible for Jacksonville to assume.

"There has been a good deal of talk about unkindness toward the Chamber of Commerce and the city commissioners. Such statements are untrue. I know that the commissioners will do all they can, I will myself work my best to light the city better, and I know the business men will do the same. The Chamber of Commerce has favored a municipally owned plant. They so declared themselves before the late bond issue was ever thought of. First last and all the time I am with the people of Jacksonville, and I have worked that they may have the most they can get for the least outlay. A good example of what a city can do in the matter of lighting is Hannibal, one of the most beautifully lighted cities I ever seen, which ten years ago, was in as bad a condition as Jacksonville.

"Some people object to municipal ownership because, they say, 'It hardly looks right to compete with an established public utility.' When I went into business I did not ask whether there were others. I am in favor of municipal ownership and I believe we are at present paying too much for electricity. In Galesburg, I notice, the commissioners have decided to furnish commercial current for 25 per cent less than previously charged by a private corporation. In Hannibal the charge is $8.90 for the amount of electricity that in Jacksonville would be sold for $16.80."

Co-operation was urged by Mr. Brennan, both in working and voting for the next bond issue and in the purchase of the bonds which he thinks local capital should take care of. He reaffirmed his belief that $50,000 would be sufficient for an adequate lighting system, a system that would do away with the joke of a city unable to light its own municipal building and would scrap the "electrical manager of the United States," as Mr. Brennan characterized the local plant and equipment.

The statement of certain men of the "underworld" that this city would never have adequate lights without saloons was repudiated by the Commissioner Brennan in the strongest terms. He said that it is the duty of all good citizens to show the falsity of such an assertion. Mr. Brennan defended his action in not employing an expert to make estimates as to what was needed before the vote on the bond issue. He said that an expensive expert was unnecessary owing to the excellent preliminary estimates made by the late C. W. Brown. He reaffirmed his willingness to do all possible for better lights and re-emphasized the necessity, if anything is really to be done, of the improvement of the municipal plant by a bond issue.

The Public Utility View. Mr. Miser, speaking on the question from the viewpoint of a manager of a public utility told why in his opinion it would be more economical for the city to purchase current from a corporation. He said in part: "It is very doubtful, for the sake of argument that the city could operate as economically as we do because we make hourly, daily and monthly reports on our costs and study and compare, maintaining an engineer in departments where they are all the time figuring and planning a new way in which that cost could be reduced."

I am endeavoring to show you the answer to the question as to whether duplicate plants could better serve the people of Jacksonville, than one plant with one investment and one set of lines.

It is well for us to have no hallucination on the subject because the people of Jacksonville, the consumers of electrical current pay all interest and depreciation when you have duplicate plants.

As an example of what various industrial concerns are doing throughout the country, we have the new Wabash shops on the line of the Decatur Railway & Light company at Decatur, which is a load of practically 3000 horse power and will amount to about $6,000 or $7,000 per month current bills. We have practically the same thing with the Chicago & Alton railroad company at Bloomington; also the same condition with the Illinois Central shops at Clinton, Illinois. The big Avary plant in Peoria alone use more than twice what the City of Jacksonville and all its people are using. These industrial concerns have looked into the matter very carefully and they, the same as our institution, have special men who make a study of cost of production and they find that is practical economy to purchase central station power, and I will predict that in five years' time there will not be one half dozen, what we term "isolated" plants in the state of Illinois. It will all be handled from central stations.

In view of the above figures it seems such a simple problem to me that I cannot help but think that it is impractical to talk of building a municipal plant to take care of 100 or perhaps 200 kilowatt load.

You can see from the curve which I have put before you that were we to have the city lighting of the city of Jacksonville, the lamps would be turned on practically an hour when our peak load is diminishing and fill out and straighten out the curve from 6 o'clock until 6 o'clock the next morning, and in that way we would be able to sell you current for the lighting of the streets at less money than what you could hope to pay operating, interest and depreciation charges for the handling of the same.

The city of Jacksonville is making this purchase will have to purchase coal, labor, pay interest, purchase waste, oil, repairs and other things that come in connection with operating a light plant.

The next question which naturally arises in your mind is "how do we know that we are going to be dealt with fairly on the question of rates and service."

As you know the last legislature passed a bill known as The Public Utility bill and created a Utility Commission which has absolute jurisdiction over every utility as to service and order in State that sells street railway service, gas, electricity, steam or water, or anything that comes under the head of a Utility.

And in closing I wish to say that the company or myself has no quarrel to pick anyone or any advantage to take of anyone. We are willing to co-operate with the city officials, Chamber of Commerce or any of citizens of the city of Jacksonville, towards working out various problems which we as a community are trying to solve; that we may make Jacksonville a place still more worth while living in.

H. J. Rodgers, the last speaker told of his experience as the superintendent of the Waverly lighting plant and outlined briefly a system of lighting by tungsten lamps for Jacksonville.

LINJIS RANKS THIRD

IN STATE ORATORICAL

Contest Won by Knox With Wesleyan Second—Bracewell, I. C. Orator Gives "The Worth of the Individual."

Knox won first place, Illinois Wesleyan second and Illinois college third, in the contest Friday at Carlinville among the colleges of the intercollegiate oratorical association. Blackburn ranked fourth and Eureka fifth. Owing to trouble with regard to plagiarism the orator from Monmouth did not enter.

Next year the contest will be held at Illinois Wesleyan university at Bloomington. The officers of the association for the ensuing year are Knotts of Blackburn, Bracewell of Illinois and French of Monmouth. As delegates to the inter-state contest the association elected Leeper of Eureka, Lucas of Knox and Fielding of Wesleyan. The judges on delivery were Congressman Lawrence B. Stringer of Lincoln, Prof. Hamsher of Smith academy and Dean Holgate of Northwestern university. On thought and composition the judges were G. W. Nadel of Olivet college, J. W. Linn of Chicago university and Prof. Harmon C. Trueblood of the University of Michigan. The Illinois delegates have nothing of which to complain in the way of entertainment. Accompanied by Pres. Rammickamp they left the city at 2:08 Thursday by way of the C. B. & Q. and were immediately made at home by the students of Blackburn on their arrival in Carlinville. At noon Friday they were guests, together with the other contestants, at a banquet cooked and served by the students.

TEACHING AGRICULTURE IN THE RURAL SCHOOLS

Wallace's Farmer Makes Suggestions To Teachers—Much Information Can Be Given To Pupils in a Concrete Way.

The following abstract of an editorial in Wallace's Farmer, October 17, will be very suggestive to teachers in the rural schools and to parents who have children to attend these schools:

"The rural schools of the corn belt are now open and the teachers at work. In many states the teachers will be required to teach agriculture because the law requires it. Even when raised on the farm, they are apt to stand against this and ask how it can be done. Naturally, they will attempt to teach it in an abstract way, and to teach it as other things are taught, to drill it into the pupils as they would the multiplication table or the rules of grammar. We have but little faith in the success of this way of teaching agriculture. The children will look upon it as an additional hard study in which they see no particular benefit to themselves, and will promptly proceed to forget what they may learn; and the labor of the teacher will be largely in vain.

Agriculture in Concrete Way.

"A great deal of agriculture, however, can be taught in a concrete way. Previous to attending school, these pupils have been getting a vast amount of education or knowledge, and have been getting it successfully. They have learned a language, and more profitably than nine-tenths of the students in any college will learn a foreign language. They have learned their own relation to matter and to the earth, and to live stock; have learned it naturally, unconsciously, and without study. The child reared in the country has a fund of information which the townsmen cannot get except through a great deal of study; and when he has it, it is frequently not usable."

"The teacher may ask how she shall go about it. She can, for example, at this season of the year ask pupils to bring samples of apples grown on the farm. She can, if her eyes are open and she will use the information that is readily obtainable, tell the names of these apples. There will be no trouble about getting the children to sample the apples and in comparing the quality of different varieties. She can point out the difference between fall apples and winter apples. She can suggest how these winter apples should be stored and kept through the winter. She can point out those that are wormy. She can tell these youngsters just how the worm gets into the apple, if the farmer does not spray; how the worm lives in the apple during the winter; the transformation through which it must pass in the spring before it can propagate its vile species.

Bringing Sample Grain.

"She can ask the pupils to bring in samples of corn from the different farms. She can ask a school director to meet with the pupils, to examine the different varieties of corn and tell which is the best. She can ask the pupils what birds they saw that morning, and what has become of the birds that live on insects, and why they are not here when school opens in the fall, when they were so plentiful in April, May and June. She can give the pupils a great deal of information about the habits of the common wild animals on the farm; if the rabbit has a hole or not, and if not, where it hides. There is a vast amount of nature study that can be carried on in this way, which is essentially agricultural, in which the pupils will be greatly interested, and by which they will be profited all their lives.

"Next April she can ask the pupils to bring a few grains of their father's seed corn, which they intend to plant. She can sprout it in the school room. She can often, through the child, show the father that he is planting poor seed corn and will have a very poor stand. She can give in a crude way, illustrations of the movement of water in the soil, and show why plants die during the summer for lack of moisture."

Mexican Said to Have Favor Of Washington, and Troopers

General Carranza, leader of the Constitutionalists, is one of the most picturesque figures in the present Mexican revolution. His part in the presidential campaign of the country was conducted solely to defeat the ambitions of Huerta. Carranza was a warm supporter of Madero, the deposed and slain president, and he has fought Huerta's every move from the start. He conducted his campaign protected by armed guards. It is said that he is well thought of by the United States authorities in Washington.

CALIFORNIA FLOODED WITH YOUNG WOMEN.

Y. W. C. A. Sends Appeal to Governors to Give Warning—Jobs Are Scarce.

The Young Women's Christian association of San Francisco has sent letters to the governors of all the states asking their aid "in coping with a situation which is rapidly becoming alarming."

Women from all walks of life, the letters say, have been coming to the association in increasing numbers from good positions in the east, under the impression that the Panama-Pacific international exposition will create more positions than can be filled by women of the state. Many of these women say they are in need.

"There is already in California," the association announces, "more than enough women to fill every position now open or which might be created as the result of the exposition."

ROOSEVELT TALKED IN BUENOS AIRES

OUTLINED HIS POLITICAL CREED BEFORE LARGE AUDIENCE.

Told Argentines What He and His Followers Hope to Accomplish—Distinguished American Was Given Seat in Chamber of Deputies—Reception in His Honor Given By Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Buenos Aires, Nov. 7.—Theodore Roosevelt recited his political creed before an audience of Argentines here today and outlined, in a speech lasting more than an hour, the work that he and his followers had set themselves to accomplish in the United States.

Colonel Roosevelt today attended the session of congress. He was escorted to a seat among the members of the chamber of deputies and listened to speeches by several of the deputies eulogistic of the United States and himself. Later he attended a reception given in his honor at the home of Dr. Ernesto Bosck, minister of foreign affairs.

In his address he said: "We do not see all the steps that it will be necessary to take in the future in order to realize our ideals," he said. "But we do see the six or eight or a dozen steps which it is now necessary to take. These we shall take; and then the further steps will become clearer to us. We welcome the aid of those who believe in our taking these first steps, even though it may be that our ways shall be sundered from their ways in the remote future."

Colonel Roosevelt spoke at length on the topic of recalling judicial decisions. In the United States, he said, certain privileged interests had sought for two generations to rob the people of their sovereignty by dividing it between courts and legislatures and finally by placing it in the courts through giving the courts political and non-judicial power. This was one of the grave evils which he and his followers sought to wipe out. Among the many reforms written on their program, he said, were these:

Outlines Reforms.

"We propose to make the process of constitutional amendment far easier, speedier and simpler than at present."

"We wish to make the people the supreme arbiters between their servants, the court and the legislature, when the court and the legislature differ as to the proper interpretation of the constitution which the people made."

"We know that it is folly to try to make the fool the equal of the wise man, but we intend to control greed and cunning and brutality in high places just as we control greed and cunning and brutality in low places."

"We intend to provide for the mother whose husband, the breadwinner, has died."

"We intend to protect the right of children to their childhood."

"From the men and women who work hard with clean hands we intend to try to lift the burden of haunting fear of an old age of undeserved penury and misery."

"We intend that machinery shall be the handmaiden and not the mistress of humanity."

"We intend to make the government a most potent instrument in working for the uplifting of mankind."

The introducing paragraphs of Col. Roosevelt's speech follow:

"The democratic movement is now so far as concerns civilized nations a well-nigh world-wide movement."

I come from one of the great democracies of the present and the future. I am speaking to another of the great democracies of the present and the future. There are many striking similarities, oh! my hearers, between my own country and this great country of yours of which at the moment I am the guest. In both there is the same teeming fertility of the soil and variety of resources, and therefore of pursuits. In both there has been the same astounding growth of a virile and energetic population. In both there has been the same piling up of material prosperity. In both side by side with the material progress we have seen the ominous development of those problems with which all of our latter-day industrial civilizations throughout the world are faced.

"Of course each nation has its own peculiar characteristics for good and for evil, and therefore each nation has to face certain problems which are peculiarly its own. But after all, our likenesses are more important than our differences, and the chief and the most numerous of the questions with which we are face to face are nearly the same, for all of us, this is especially true of your country and mine, both young, both of vast physical area, both growing by leaps and bounds, both in the flush of an enormous material development."

"There are nations so backward that they are not as yet in any real sense fit for self-government. Self-government cannot be thrust upon nations from without. It must be developed from within."

"But we must never forget that the awakening to a demand for rights will mean nothing unless the awakening to a sense of duty goes with it. Self-government is the best of all governments, but it is also the most difficult. Only a very advanced people, a people of sound intelligence, and above all of robust character, is fit to govern itself. No gift of popular institutions will avail if the people who receive them do not possess certain great and masterful qualities, and above all, the combination of two qualities—individual self-reliance, and the power of combining for the common good."

"Similarly, they must possess both the quality that tells in favor of a high idealism, and also the quality that gives sound practical common sense in the effort to realize this high ideal. The resolute insistence upon their own rights must go hand in hand with the ready acknowledgment of the rights of others. Above all, there must be in the people the power of self-control."

"Only those peoples who to self-reliance and self-confidence add also self-control, can permanently embark on the difficult course of molding their own destinies."

"The people of the Argentine have achieved this high quality of citizenship, as the people of my own country have achieved it. But you and we alike must remember that we can never afford to forget the need of possessing this quality. If we surrender ourselves to be governed by our own passions and folly and ignorance, then surely in the end, from without the country or from within the country, a master will arise to dominate us."

Those fall and winter suits, at Knoles' are just what you need.

FACE BROKE OUT IN LITTLE PIMPLES

Red and Sore. Like Little Boils. Would Wake Up At Night and Scratch. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Three Weeks.

Falls City, Neb.—"My trouble began when I was about sixteen. My face broke out in little pimples at first. They were red and sore and then became like little boils. I picked at my face continually and it made my face red and sore looking and then I would wake up at night and scratch it. It was a source of continual annoyance to me, as my face was always red and spotted and burned all the time."

"I tried ——— and others, but I could find nothing to cure it. I had been troubled about two years before I found Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and tried them and I then bought some. I washed my face good with the Cuticura Soap and hot water at night and then applied the Cuticura Ointment. In the morning I washed it off with the Cuticura Soap and hot water. In two days I noticed a decided improvement, while in three weeks the cure was complete." (Signed) JUDITH Knowles, Jan. 10, 1913.

It costs nothing to learn how pure, sweet, effective and satisfying Cuticura Soap and Ointment are in the treatment of poor complexion, red, rough hands, itching scalp, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, because you need not buy them until you try them. Although sold everywhere, sample of each will be mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

Stork and Cupid Cunning Plotters

Many a New Home will Have a Little Sunbeam to Brighten it.

There is usually a certain degree of dread in every woman's mind as to the probable pain, distress and danger of childbirth. But, thanks to a most remarkable remedy known as Mother's Friend, all fear is banished and the period is one of unbounded, joyful anticipation. Mother's Friend is used externally. It is a most penetrating application, makes the muscles of the stomach and abdomen pliant so they expand easily and naturally without pain, without distress and with none of that peculiar nausea, nervousness and other symptoms that tend to weaken the prospective mother. Thus Cupid and the stork are held up to veneration; they are rated as cunning plotters to herald the coming of a little sunbeam to gladden the hearts and brighten the homes of a host of happy families.

There are thousands of women who have used Mother's Friend, and thus know from experience that it is one of our greatest contributions to healthy, happy motherhood. It is sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle, and is especially recommended as a preventive of caking breasts and all other such distresses.

Write to Bradfield Regulator Co., 131 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their very valuable book to expectant mothers. Get a bottle of Mother's Friend today. There is a wealth of instruction and comfort to be derived in reading this little book. It is plainly written, just what every woman wants to know, and will be a splendid little textbook for guidance, not only for yourself, but will make you helpful to others. And, in the meantime, do not fail to get a bottle of Mother's Friend at the drug store, and thus fortify yourself against any and all pain and discomfort.

SOME OFF-SIDE CHUTES.

Robert Brown of Louisville, Gary Herrmann's man Friday, has been declared out of the running and will not succeed Tom Lynch as president of the National League. The Cincinnati mogul, it is claimed, had secured the support of Ebbetts, Dreyfus and Britton, but was unable to land the fifth and necessary vote to put his man over. W. F. Baker, the new president of the Quakers, started out on a quiet hunt for a man whom he thought could be elected to succeed Lynch, and went to the Pennsylvania state capital to interview Gov. John K. Tener. He has returned with the governor's promise that if elected for five years and is given unhampered control he will accept the position. Governor Tener knows the game in all of its angles, and he knows the magnates as well. If he is placed at the helm, he will "run the job" in the best interests of the pastime and will not stand to be buffeted by any clique or combination whose only interest in the league is the almighty dollar and a desire to run it in a manner suitable to their own selfishness.

Hal Chase has recovered from his injuries and is again in the line-up with the barnstormers. He has taken Comiskey's advice and is wearing high cut shoes to protect his ankles.

Thursday Packey McFarland signed to meet Harry Treadwell in St. Louis on December 4 at catch weights. This is six contests the Adonis has contracted for since last Monday, and all of them are scheduled to take place within seven weeks. Retiring in February, his services will be in demand right up to the minute by reputable clubs. He is the best drawing card in the game today, and the fans always are sure of a run for their money when he is in action.

Frank Gotch visited Chicago with his wife Thursday, and in an interview Mrs. G. announced that Frank was through with the mat game because she would not allow him to again enter the arena. Some persistent promoter will one of these days dig up another Hackenschmidt or a Westergaard, hang up a $20,000 purse, and then Frank, as well as Mrs. Frank, will undergo a change of heart.

Princeton coaches have changed their minds upon that scheme of numbering the Tigers upon the field and will abandon the idea. In the game against Harvard today the team will appear without the red labels.

Dick Carter, Jr., one of the best known trainers on the running turf, died at Chantilly, France, on Thursday while undergoing an operation for the resetting of a broken leg. When training in this country Dick handled some of the best horses that ever entered a stake. Since racing received its bump on this side he has been abroad and was the trainer of the Belmont stable, preparing all of the New Yorker's big string of stake winners.

The International Boxing union in session in Paris has "read" Jack Johnson out of the world's heavyweight championship. Somebody must have slipped that union a copy of Tom McCarey's constitution and by-laws, as it is generally understood on this side of the big ditch that the Los Angeles promoter has patent rights to make and unmake champions—on paper.

A state-wide initiative petition is in circulation in California providing for the repeal of the law authorizing boxing contests. Like horse racing on the coast, the promoters played the game away above their heads and are now floundering in water so deep that there is no chance to swim to safety.

All obstacles now removed, there is nothing to prohibit the Federal league negotiating for the services of Mr. Tom Lynch. His theatrical interests at Waterbury and Meriden in the Nutmeg state will not suffer because of his alignment with the "outlaws." The Connecticut state league is "feral" the men at the head of "organized baseball."

Nothing of importance transpired at the American league meeting held in Chicago on Thursday. The moguls declared in favor of granting the "reasonable" demands of the players, closed up the season's books, wine, dined and adjourned until February.

GRIDIRON TITLES TO BE DECIDED

New York, Nov. 7.—The football season, short at the best, enters on its final stage tomorrow, and within the next three Saturdays the three big games of the season will be played—Harvard vs. Yale, Yale vs. Princeton and the Army vs. Navy. They are the biggest games, but not necessarily the most interesting, for the Pennsylvania-Cornell battle comes on Thanksgiving day, and whatever the quality of the football in this game and the records of the teams there is always lively action and variety.

The big game tomorrow will be the Harvard-Princeton contest at Princeton. Yale will take on Brown at New Haven and Pennsylvania will have the strong Dartmouth eleven as an opponent on Franklin Field. Another attractive item on the day's menu will be the interesting battle at Ithaca between Cornell and Michigan.

TODAY AN OFF DAY FOR BIG GAMES IN CENTRAL STATES

PROGRAM INCLUDES SEVERAL CONTESTS THAT SHOULD PROVE EXCITING

Iowa's Game With Nebraska Over-shadowed Today's Indiana Contest During Practice This Week at Iowa City—Eastern Teams Will Play Games Which Will Have a Decided Bearing On the Ultimate Ranking of the Elevens.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—An offday in central states football so far as "big games" are concerned tomorrow will furnish contests important mainly as final workouts before the battles which later are to decide championships. The program, however, includes several games that should prove close and exciting though they have but little or no bearing on the final ranking of the teams.

Iowa's game with Nebraska—a combat of historic interest west of the Mississippi—overshadowed tomorrow's Indiana game during practice this week at Iowa City.

Prepares for Nebraska Game.
Not under-estimating the Hoosiers, Coach Hawley felt confident in the ability of the Hawkeys to outplay Indiana and devoted most of the Iowans' work apparently to preparations for Nebraska. Misfortune has followed misfortune among the Indiana squad and Hoosier rooters will be glad if the team holds Hawley's men to a close score.

Ohio State's team, pronounced a bit green, should not offer much opposition to Wisconsin's seasoned players in spite of the two drubblings the latter have undergone this year. A heavier line and more experienced backs make a Badger victory more than likely but Coach Jueau, planning like Hawley for a game a week hence, probably will be content with a small margin in his favor.

Coach Stagg will send second string men against Northwestern if it is believed. Those who have been looking for a top-heavy score in the Maroons favor—basing their predictions on the purple's disastrous year and the good record of Stagg's charges—are likely to be disappointed, for the mid-way coach, like the others, is planning his game against Minnesota November 15.

Perhaps the toughest of the day's battles in this section is the one between Drake and Missouri at Columbia, while another that may be hard fought is that in which Mt. Union plays the Michigan Aggies.

Michigan meets Cornell at Ithaca in the second of its games with Eastern teams and Wolverine rooters are rather hopeful of the outcome. In view of the showing Yost's men made against Syracuse last week.

Important Games.
Indiana vs. Iowa at Iowa City.
Chicago vs. Northwestern at Evanston.

Mt. Union vs. Michigan Aggies at Lansing.
Ohio State vs. Wisconsin at Madison.

Purdue vs. Rose Poly at LaFayette.
Missouri vs. Drake at Columbia.

Nebraska-Wesleyan vs. Nebraska at Lincoln.
Michigan vs. Cornell at Ithaca.

Important Games in East.
New York, Nov. 7.—Football games which will have a decided bearing on the ultimate ranking of eastern college elevens are scheduled for tomorrow afternoon. These contests mark the passing of the preliminary season. They will bring together several of the leading elevens of the section which have to date triumphed in every game. The feature games of the day bring together Harvard and Princeton at Princeton and Pennsylvania and Dartmouth at Philadelphia. There are several other big games scheduled for tomorrow that are likely to prove interesting. Yale will tomorrow have her final tryout before facing Princeton the following, using the fast Brown university eleven as opponents.

Cornell has the honor of figuring in the only inter-sectional game of the day since the University of Michigan eleven will be entertained at Ithaca.

Both the Army and Navy have drawn strong contenders for their Saturday games in Albright and Bucknell, respectively. Although representing colleges with small student enrollments, these two teams have made excellent records to date and should force the soldiers and sailors to play their best in order to win.

Kansas Aggies, 13; Texas A. and M. college, 0.

Notre Dame, 14; Pennsylvania state, 7.

WESTERN LEAGUE WILL "STAND PAT" ON ITS PRESENT CIRCUIT

President O'Neill Announces Only Routine Business Will be Transacted at Meeting.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—The Western league will "stand pat" on its circuit as it was constituted this year, according to President Norris O'Neill. Mr. O'Neill today said the meeting of the league here Sunday and the directors' meeting tomorrow will handle routine matter only, including the reading of annual reports, deciding on the number of games to be played next year and on the date of the schedule meeting.

President O'Neill declared it unlikely that Pitcher "Doc" White of the Chicago Americans would purchase a share in the Des Moines club, which it was reported recently he intended to do.

NOTABLE MISSION CENTENNIAL.
Bombay, India, Nov. 7.—Following preparations that have been going forward for more than a year, a notable series of meetings was begun in Bombay today in celebration of the centennial of American missions in India. The first mission, the Marathi Mission of West India, was founded just one hundred years ago by a party of five young missionaries who were sent out by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. The American board is represented at the centennial celebration by a delegation headed by its president, Samuel B. Capen of Boston.

Miss Ana Kerwin has returned to her home in St. Louis after an extended visit with relatives in the city.

STEPMOTHER SUES KILBANE.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 7.—Johnny Kilbane, feather-weight champion, today was sued for $25,000 damages by his stepmother, Mrs. Bridget Kilbane, who charges that he alienated the affections of her husband, John Kilbane, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Kilbane were separated about a year ago. Kilbane is 60 years old and blind.

TRAVELS IN RUSSIA.

(By S. W. Nichols.)

We thought the bridges, saddles and harness were rather fine, but when we came to the rigs themselves, we said, Oh, my! There must have been forty or fifty of these grand, and I felt like saying useless affairs, and such gold and glitter were simply beyond description. The readers of the Journal may have seen some fine circus turnouts, but those were gaudy without much wealth in their composition, but these were the real thing itself. The coronation coaches of different sovereigns were displayed and were rich in gold, satin and velvet, fine palatine and gilding. They were made to close tightly when the occupants were riding and the bodies were generally hung on the roughbraces and swung between the great axles and at good distances from them. There were the rigs used by Peter the Great, Queen Elizabeth, Catharine the great, Alexander I, Alexander II, and Alexander III, while the vehicle used by the present monarch is also on exhibition and it will compare favorably with all the rest. It seems to have been a favorite pastime with monarch to give each of these coaches and the guide pointed out several which were the presents of royal givers to the crown family of this land and the gifts generally were worthy of one monarch to another and must have been very acceptable.

Then there was a collection of children's carriages and such as were used by the royal family for pleasure and a rich little rig made just like a large vehicle and the gift of a king to the child of another sovereign. The little princess and princesses had fine toys and probably made good use of them. An old though staunch looking sledge was pointed out as the handiwork of Peter the Great, and I begin to conclude that if he actually made with his own hands all the things shown as his he must have sat up nights and worked right lively in addition to that. There were great sledges, such as were used by the reigning family and capable of holding a dozen or more people, and then there were those in which two are company and three are none. No expense seems to have been spared in the construction of anything we saw and we saw a lot. When we asked to see the horses we were told we could not. Most of them are at the palace occupied by the czar and it is possible that this country does not have as many useless animals, of which we saw at least a hundred in Berlin four years ago.

A Great Statue. Everything about the city almost pertains to the illustrious founder and in a park near our hotel is the famous statue of him. It is equestrian and represents the horse rearing as high as possible on his hind legs, while his rider is calmly holding the reins with his left hand and extending the right arm, slightly bent at the elbow and his hand outstretched palm down. The statue stands on an immense boulder brought eight miles from the gulf of Finland and said to have been transported by rollers, it on a wooden boulder, which was made of the statue is of bronze and a magnificent piece of work. Under the horse is a large serpent extending its back and the animal and the purpose of it is soon seen, as it is spiked to the rock and to the horse's tail reaches and the whole serves to maintain the position of the statue. The whole thing is a wonderful work of art, though somehow I didn't fully enjoy it and while of course my criticism is worth nothing, I can hardly say I like such equestrian statues. It is very seldom that a horse is seen in any such position as is represented in this group and it looks somewhat strained and unnatural.

It is wholly possible that the statue of General Grant in Lincoln park may be a trifle tame, but it is not at all unlikely or impossible. The famous statue of General Sherman in Central park, New York, and the work of Augustus St. Gaudens seems to me more natural and true to life, but of course I offer these remarks for what they are worth and not at all as a criticism on one of the noted masterpieces of the world.

The Winter Palace. When the weather is cold and the czar wants to live in the city he has a winter palace and has to worry along in a small house with only ten hundred and seven rooms. We paid it a visit one morning and found it indeed a grand place, as was to be expected. Of course I shall not attempt any detailed description of the vast pile, suffice to say, it is like others of its kind, gorgeous and regardless of cost. One especial feature was the stone and marble top tables, the tops in several cases composed of different stones wrought together in ingenious and remarkable manner. Large glass partitions separate a green house from the adjacent parts and it makes a pleasant diversion. The banquet halls, throne room and all else make a wonderful assembly of wealth and grandeur. The members of the royal family do not have to go out to church, for they have a chapel with all its appliances in the palace and can attend services there if they choose. The altar is magnificent and some of the icons are rich in gold and precious stones. In a case guarded most carefully are a real hand of John the Baptist and one of the Virgin Mary. Both are, of course, withered away and are but shreds of human parts. Then in another corner of the case is a piece of the true cross on which the dear Redeemer died. It is in the shape of a Maltese cross and set with diamonds.

The reception rooms are pleasant and several suites of apartments are shown and are remarkable for different reasons. One pathetic collection of relics pertains to Alexander II, who was so fatally assassinated. In a special room were the coat he wore at the time, 60 kopecks (about thirty cents) which he had in his purse, the last cigar holder he used, his work table, ink stands, knife, pens, pencils, books, erasers, cigar holders, gloves, pocket knife, handkerchiefs and a great many other things. There was the couch on which his body was laid when brought in from the street and the bloody marks may be seen by raising the temporary cover. His bed, the Bible from which he read, his icon in a corner of the room where he prayed before retiring, all these and many more things pertaining to the deceased monarch are shown with care and reverence by the custodians in charge.

I saw these sad relics of a monarch who was inclined to be more human than many who have worn a crown. I couldn't help wishing the anarchists would be more consistent and desist entirely from bomb throwing and if they must throw the deadly things not to kill such men as Alexander III, McKinley, Lincoln and such men like him. True it is that the crowned head lies uselessly.

Kazansky Church.

Along one of the main thoroughfares is Kazansky church, built with a peristyle something like the Vatican at Rome, only on a smaller scale. Like all others it is very costly and filled with all sorts of rich articles in the shape of icons and the like. Among the especial articles we give the church renown is a silver railing about the altar and worth hundreds of thousands. In one part is an image of the Redeemer on the cross and below it is a niche of the wood and carefully covered with glass is a nail taken from the true cross and which was once driven through the hand or foot of the Saviour of the world. It is regarded as one particularly holy and many pious devotees press up to kiss the glass over it, for that is a common mode of worship in this land; all sacred objects must be kissed as far as possible and many times and that will account for what I have mentioned regarding manner in which Russian pilgrims kiss the stone at the holy sepulcher. This church was named after the province of that name and was built because pious persons had brought to the city a sacred picture of the Blessed Virgin and it must have a suitable resting place and so a costly church was constructed to accommodate it.

Peter the Great's House.

As I said before, almost everything in this city in some way pertains to the illustrious founder, Peter the Great, and one object of particular interest is the small house said to have been built with his own hands and standing on the other side of the river Neva. Of course we went to see it and were much interested in it. It is a small, plain, one story structure and well built. There are shown a number of articles of furniture made solely by him, a large row boat of his construction and a number of articles. Peter was devout and had a small room set apart as a chapel and now it is venerated with especially reverence by people who flock into it to kiss the icons and various articles. One of these is a portrait of the Master and said to have been given the stern monarch by an Arab chieftain who feared to withhold anything of value. The legend connected with it is that as the Saviour was carrying the cross to the place of execution his face was sweaty and bleeding and a kind hearted person wiped it with a napkin and when the latter was removed on its surface was found a portrait of the Redeemer. It is old and hardly visible, but it is much venerated and regarded as above price by the people.

A Royal Mausoleum. Kings and queens must die the same as other people, but their bodies are disposed of in a different manner from that of the common herd. A church called St. Peter and St. Paul is in the same part of city as that of the first house erected by Peter the Great and is a fine pile like the others. In it are deposited the bodies of many of the royal family, czars and czarinas both and over each grave is a marble sarcophagus about three feet wide and high and the length of the grave and on the top of each is a large gilt cross. Here lies the body of Peter the Great and on the sarcophagus are three lights kept burning all the time, day and night.

All about the place are costly icons and the altar is like those in other churches, especially rich, with an iconostass of surpassing richness. There is about the place a profusion of silver crowns, wreaths, and similar objects, one of the most remarkable of which is one of a peculiar stone unlike anything in the realm. It is green and looks exactly like a wreath of green leaves, but is costly stone and was given by the wealthy men of the city and cost thirty thousand dollars.

Already the place is well filled and a costly addition is being built to the church so as to be able to supply the resting places for the bodies of the royal blood. The remains of Peter the Great are the first to be deposited here and then came those of grand dukes and their families, so that the place is rapidly filling up. It made me think of a mausoleum I saw in Potsdam, near Berlin, only that was not nearly as costly as this, but on the tops of the sarcophagi were the recumbent figures of the occupants as large as life and finely carved by the best artists in the land. The church is a rich building and priests were intoning mass while we were there and were devoutly heard by a small audience.

WORLD'S PURITY CONGRESS MEETS IN MINNEAPOLIS

Two Thousand Delegates Assemble For Great Convention—Prominent Speakers Attend.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 7.—Nearly two thousand delegates, representing leading religious, educational, social, civic and reform bodies in nearly all parts of the world and including official representatives of the governments of the United States and of Canada and of many governments in Europe and in other sections of the globe, were assembled in the Westminster Presbyterian church on Nicollet avenue, in this city today when the opening session of the Seventh International Purity congress was called to order by B. S. Steadwell of LaCrosse, Wis., president of the World's Purity Federation. The congress will remain in session until and including next Wednesday, Nov. 12, and in addition to the general sessions to be held in the Westminster Presbyterian church there will be special and departmental meetings at the Auditorium, a short distance from the church.

At a gathering which was held in LaCrosse, Wis., on Oct. 17-19, 1905, the National Purity Federation was organized for the suppression of white slavery and public vice, the promotion of a high and single standard of morals for men and women, the safe and sane instruction of youth in sex hygiene, and in furtherance of such economic, civic and moral reforms as will conserve the highest character and life of individuals as well as of nations. As the international character of the work undertaken was realized, the name of the organization was later changed to the World's Purity Federation and the movement begun in LaCrosse met with cordial support and sympathy in all civilized countries of the world. B. S. Steadwell, the original organizer of the movement, who was elected president of the National Purity Federation when it was founded in 1905, was retained as president of the World's Purity Federation and is supported by a large staff of co-workers, vice-presidents and members of the advisory board.

Among the distinguished delegates in attendance who will address the congress upon various topics under consideration are Dr. Keshava Deva Shastri, an educator and reformer of India; the Rev. T. A. Moore of Toronto, one of the vice-presidents of the federation; Governor Eberhart of this state; C. M. Sheldon of Topeka, Kan., author of "In His Steps"; Rev. Theodore Hanson of Topeka, Kan.; Stanley W. THE CANAL AND IMMIGRATION. Seattle, Wash., Nov. 7.—The Western Labor Immigration Conference assembled in this city today with an attendance of delegates from labor organizations in California, Oregon, Washington, Utah, Idaho and British Columbia. The chief purpose of the conference, which will continue in session over tomorrow, is to devise plans whereby the great tide of European immigration that is expected to sweep over the Pacific coast country after the opening of the Panama canal may be absorbed without demoralizing the labor market.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA, GAS OR INDIGESTION

Each "Pape's Diapiesin" Digests 300 Grains Food, Ending All Stomach Misery in Five Minutes. "Pape's Diapiesin" will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach surely within five minutes. It your meals don't fit comfortably or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Get from your pharmacist a fifty-cent box of Pape's Diapiesin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with noxious odor.

Pape's Diapiesin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is waiting for you at any drug store. These large fifty-cent boxes contain enough "Pape's Diapiesin" to keep the entire family free from stomach disorders and indigestion for many months. It belongs in your home.—Adv.

ENJOY A GOOD DINNER

Avoid Stomach Distress or Indigestion After Eating—Use Mi-o-na. Let us tell you how to enjoy a good dinner so that the heartiest meal will set well on your stomach, cause no unpleasant and disagreeable after-effects.

There is no hard work; no need of a rigid diet list; no disagreeable medicine; instead, eat what you like, when you want it, and use Mi-o-na Stomach Tablets. They are not only a digestive giving prompt and effective relief, but a specific for stomach ills. Do not endure stomach troubles another day. Mi-o-na surely and safely strengthens the digestive organs, soothes the irritated membrane, and increases the flow of digestive fluids so that the stomach can care for the food as nature intended.

Do not continue to suffer with that uncomfortable feeling after a hearty meal. Get a fifty cent box of Mi-o-na Stomach Tablets today—always keep them in the house—carry them when traveling.

Money refunded if Mi-o-na is not satisfactory. Sold by druggists everywhere.—Adv.

HOME FROM CALIFORNIA.

John Kerns has returned from a trip to California and says he was greatly pleased with the journey and thought the golden gate very lovely and attractive to a tourist but he has no thought of settling there. He says large numbers of people are thronging in there and many have to sleep in the parks. Work is almost out of the question and many are in sore straits.

PIMPPLY? WE'LL DON'T BE!

People Notice It. Drive Them Off With Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, the bowels and the liver with Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are the successful substitute for calomel; there's never any sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with "a dark brown taint," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 15c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.—Adv.

"Fourteen Year in Jacksonville." Dr. C. W. Carson

The Regular and Reliable Chicago Specialist will be at the

Dunlap House, Wednesday, Nov. 12

One day only and Returns every 28 Days.

Office hours: 8 a. m. to 4 p. m.

"The most reliable and successful specialist in diseases of men and women has visited Jacksonville since 1880, cured the cases he undertakes and refuses a fee from the incurable. This is why he continues his visits year after year, while other specialists have made a few visits and cease to return. His hospital, experience and extensive practice have made him so proficient that he can name and locate a disease in a few minutes."

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

Are you nervous and despondent; weak and debilitated; tired morning; no energy; listless; memory poor; easily fatigued; excitable and irritable; eyes sunken, red and blurred; pimples on face; dreams and night terrors; restless, haggard looking; weak back; deposit in urine and drains at stool; distrustful; want of confidence; lack of energy and strength. The Carson System will cure you.

Dr. Carson through years of experience has perfected the most infallible method of curing all diseases and weaknesses of men, youthful follies and ill effects of abuses and excesses, improper life and solitary habits which ruin both mind and body unfitting for business, study, society or marriage. A perfect restoration guaranteed under legal contract in writing backed by abundant capital to hold for my promise. It costs no more to cure an expert than to risk your life with an inexperienced physician.

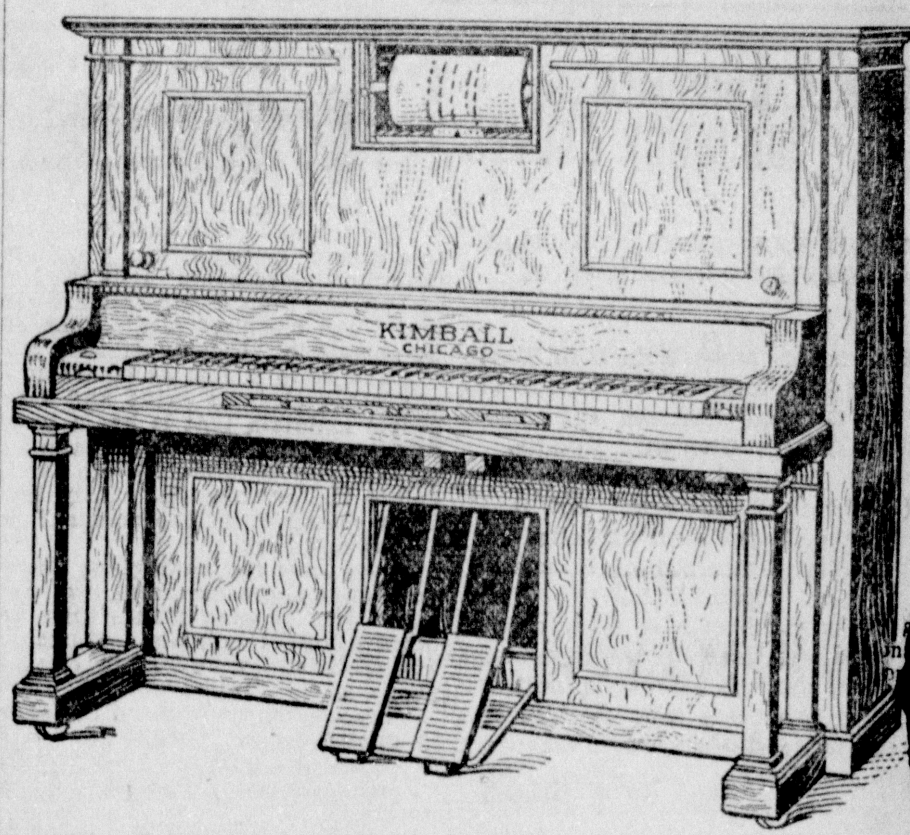

I ALSO CURE ALL CURABLE CASES OF Catarrh, Eye, Ear, Nose, Throat, Lungs, Liver, Kidney, Heart, Stomach, Bowels, Bladder and Skin Diseases by a treatment that has never failed in thousands of cases that have been pronounced beyond hope.

Some malady alone I have earnestly devoted 30 or the best years of my life. Physicians having faithless cases to treat are cordially invited to consult with me. I make no charge for such consultation. Describing your troubles, if unable to travel, I will write to you. I have been successful in every case of Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Pimples, Eruptions and Venereal diseases cured without detention from business. Sexual weakness, Syphilis, Gonorrhea, and Stricture a specialty.

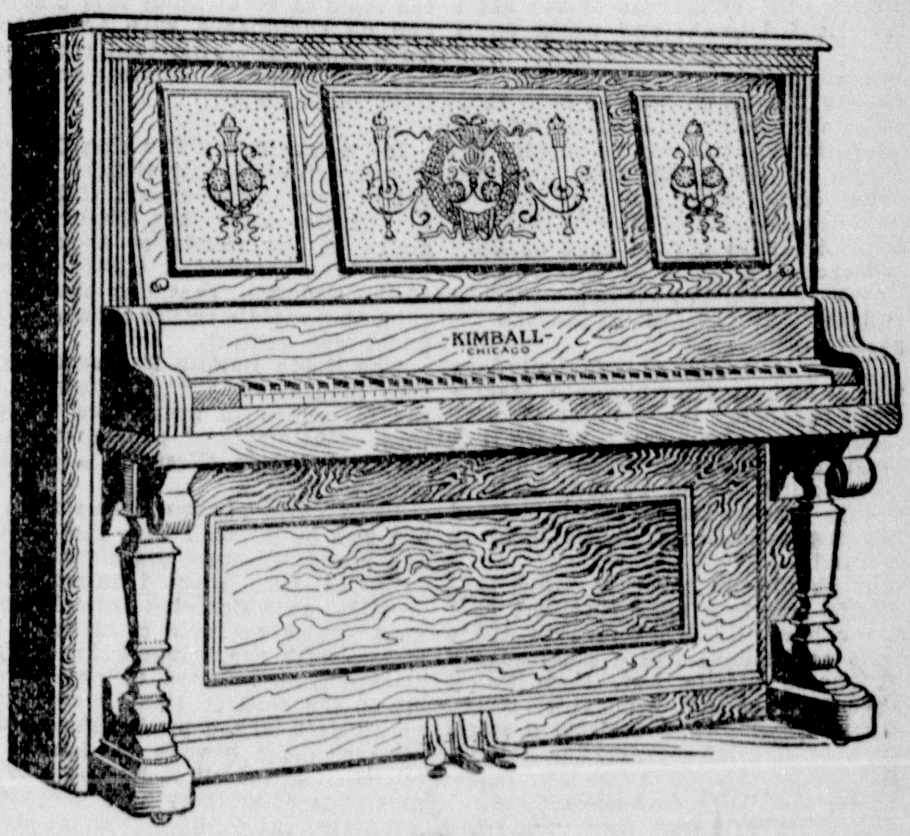

REMEMBER DATE OF VISIT. Come early as parlors are always crowded, extremely late may cause you future suffering. I have made life anew to thousands who had been pronounced beyond hope. No cases treated by correspondence and no C. O. D. schemes.

MILK REQUIREMENTS FOR DAIRY CALVES

RESULTS OF TESTS AT UNIVERSITY ARE INTERESTING.

Experiments Made With Both Whole and Skim Milk—Grain Used to Vary Rations—Flavored Ingredients in Rations Give Best Results.

(By Prof. W. J. Fraser, and R. E. Brand, Department of Dairy Husbandry, University of Illinois).

(Third Article.)

In previous articles we have told two tests made in the experiment to find out the amount of milk required to raise a calf. A third test was made with six calves that were fed somewhat more liberally, especially of whole milk, than those in the second test, but they did not do much better.

Conclusions.

The results of these second and third tests would therefore seem to show the important thing in the raising of calves is to give them a fairly good start on whole milk during the first three weeks, and that after this, whole milk may be successfully replaced with skim milk if the skim milk is fed sweet and warm as it comes from the separator. The calves should be continued on 12 pounds of skim milk a day until they are about seven weeks old, and thereafter the amount may be rapidly reduced, so that by the time they are about eight weeks old they will be receiving no milk at all. At this age their digestive organs have normally reached a stage of development which permits the feeding of grain and hay without causing serious digestive disorders.

There is a lack of sufficient data from which to draw absolute conclusions regarding the amount of milk required to raise a calf. Where it is possible, more milk than herein recommended should be fed, as it is always best to keep a calf in a good growing condition from its birth to maturity.

It should be borne in mind that alfalfa hay is a most excellent feed for calves. If the calves in these tests could have had a good supply of choice alfalfa hay, they would have been greatly benefited. Every farmer should raise at least a small amount of alfalfa hay for no other purpose than to feed to his calves.

Cost of Milk Fed Each Calf.
A table prepared deals with the cost of milk fed each calf when skim milk is worth 25 cents per hundred pounds and the value of whole milk varies from $1 to $1.80 per hundred pounds on the farm.

Among other things it showed that with whole milk at $1.40 per hundred pounds, the value of the total milk consumed per calf varied from $1.61 to $4.62. This value is comparatively small, and yet at six months of age every one of the 28 calves was in good condition.

Why It Pays to Raise Heifers.

Results of the experiment show that the cost of the milk required to raise a calf successfully is not excessive. Experienced dairymen say that the heifers they raise from their best cows produce as much during their first lactation period as the average mature cows they can buy. The department of dairy husbandry has weighed and tested the milk of a large number of individual cows in the dairy herds over the state, thus obtaining their yearly production, and they find that the average annual production of the cows in the herds where grading has not been practiced is 177.6 pounds of butter fat, making an annual profit of $5.33 per cow, while the average annual production of the cows in herds where grading has been practiced is 126.3 pounds of butter fat, making an annual profit of $3.86 per cow. This means that the average cow in the herds where grading has been practiced earns for her owner $20.53 more annually than the average cow in the herds where grading has not been practiced, or practically five times as much.

This annual advantage of $20.53 to offset the care, trouble, and cost of raising the heifers from the best cows, makes evident at once the fallacy of the belief that milk at the market price is too expensive to feed even good calves. If one considers that $20.53 is equal to five per cent interest on $410, it certainly makes the cost of the milk for the calf ($4.62) look very insignificant.

OUCH! ACHING JOINTS. RUB RHEUMATIC PAIN AWAY

Rub Rheumatism away with a small trial bottle of penetrating old St. Jacobs Oil.

AGRICULTURE NOTES.

New Bulletin on Mutton.

Mutton and lamb should be used to a greater extent by our people for the following reasons: It is as cheap as beef and the steaming cuts are generally the cheapest meats that can be purchased. Cleanly dressed mutton and lamb is just as palatable as any other class of meat and many people maintain that it has a better flavor. Whole or half carcasses of mutton may be used by the family before the meat spoils. They furnish a change from the constant use of beef and pork.

Sheep have few contagious diseases and fewer sheep carcasses are condemned in packing plants than any other class of animals. Mutton is not excluded by any large class of people on religious ground.

The bulletin from which the above is quoted is by F. G. Paterson of the Minnesota University agricultural college, and may be obtained on request.

Illinois May Establish System of Accrediting Herds Free from Tuberculosis.

The new state board of live stock commissioners at the suggestion of Doctor O. E. Dyson, the new state veterinarian, announces that a system of state accredited herds will be established by the board. The new state veterinarian offers the aid of the state in eradicating this disease, and on compliance with reasonable conditions will certify that the herds which accept the service are free from tuberculosis.

In an article on "The Hog Cholera situation," W. J. Carmichael, assistant in animal husbandry, University of Illinois, says that beyond any doubt in the minds of those who have been making a careful study of the situation, that hog cholera is spreading rapidly rather than getting under our control.

The North Dakota Farmers' Institute monthly has the following to say in regard to preventive measures: "Attempts at prevention may be divided into those of a specific nature."

"The germ always comes from a hog sick or infected with the disease and hence, we must begin with carefully isolating infected animals and premises on which sick animals were kept. Next we must attempt to interfere with the transmission of the disease from infected to well herds. While the feed in itself plays little or no part in the production of the disease, there always is danger of introducing infection by the use of foodstuffs which may have been contaminated with the germs in some way or other."

In the more specific means of prevention the use of protective serum must be given consideration. Protective serum injected into a susceptible, healthy hog, that is not exposed to infection, will protect this animal for a period of approximately four weeks.

"In herds exposed to natural infection during this period of protection, the immunity will last considerably longer, from several months to a life time even. This same duration of immunity may be secured by the injection of a small quantity of virulent blood at the same time when the serum is injected."

LOOKS LIKE A SEA OF ICE.

Curious Lake of Soda in the Wilds of East Africa.

Lake Magadi in British East Africa, is famous for its vast deposits of soda. Until recently few people have seen its shores, for it lies in the midst of a barren and waterless district, but the railway that was started a few years ago by an English company opens the way for travelers to this curious natural phenomenon. A recent visitor describes it in the London Field.

Ordinarily it looks as if it had frozen and as if snow had then fallen upon it, partially thawed and frozen again. The temperature gives the lie to this appearance of roughened ice, for the heat is extreme and at midday almost unbearable. The soda turns the feet even through a boot, and the sharp, projecting spikes, which resemble hoar frost, will pierce any except the thickest sole. After the rains there is a layer of water over the greater part of the lake, which turns a lovely pink color. By moonlight the scene is weirdly beautiful.

The lake contains at least 200,000,000 tons of crystalline substance, composed almost entirely of carbonate and bicarbonate of soda. Surface and underground streams of saturated soda liquor continually feed it. The present supply of soda is enormous, and as fast as it is removed a new surface, formed from the "mother liquid" beneath, replaces it. Natives have collected soda from the same spot year after year without making the slightest difference in the abundance of the supply.

Infatigable.

The druggist was becoming wearied by a shopkeeper, who, with no intention to buy, kept asking questions, examining various articles, peering them and demanding the manner of their use. Finally she picked up a bottle. "Is this pest exterminator reliable?" she asked. "How is it applied?"

"You take a tablespoonful every half hour, m'm'm." The druggist replied, with more than an ounce of satisfaction. And the woman asked no more questions.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

MULE FOOT HOG FAR FROM BEING NEW BREED

SUCH ANIMALS WERE WRITTEN ABOUT IN ARISTOTLE'S TIME.

Comparatively Unknown in This Country Until Recent Years—Type Has Some Advantages Over Cloven Foot Hog—Seems To Be Nearly Immune From Cholera.

(By W. J. Carmichael, Assistant Animal Husbandry, University of Illinois).

In spite of the fact that there are a large number of breeds of hogs in existence now and have been for some time, it seems that new breeds or apparently new breeds are constantly springing up. People are not satisfied to confine all of their attention to one or two breeds of any kind of animals—and there is no special reason why they should do so inasmuch as each and every breed of every class of live stock has a rather distinct purpose for being, else it would have been crowded out of existence long since.

Peculiar foot of the Mulefoot hog.

In swine as in other farm animals there have been, slowly but steadily produced until now there are more breeds than one can count on the fingers of both hands. These are not all of the same age nor of equal merits. It is not the purpose of this article to pick out the best breed for any purpose, nor to give a complete history of all breeds, but merely to place before the people a few impartial statements in regard to the rather unfamiliar breed—The Mulefoot Hog.

Breed Long Known.
This breed has not been recognized as a breed for many years in spite of the fact that hogs without the cloven foot have been known by naturalists for over 2,000 years. Aristotle wrote of similar hogs as early as 350 B. C., when giving us a list and classification of the animals at that time. Little mention was made of them from that time until about 1735, when Linnaeus, the most famous Swedish naturalist, spoke freely of them. Then they were not at all uncommon in that part of the world. From this it is not at all difficult to see that this hog, which by the way is rather uncommon today, is not a very new kind or strain. In the days of the civil war they seemed to be rather plentiful in the south and furnished a large amount of meat for the soldiers of both sides in certain localities.

Until recently this breed was regarded as something new and as a genuine freak. When they were on exhibition at the various fairs they were the center of attraction, not because they were marvellous hogs from the standpoint of the producers or packers, for they were not, but because they were "new" to the people. The first ones exhibited were rather inferior individuals and it is only very recently that high class animals have been found in the show pens. Even now, many are found here when they are not up to a standard which is sufficient high to pattern after.

Standard Is Set.

The National Mulefoot Hog Record association, for this breed was not organized until 1908, thus making it the youngest of the various breed associations. They have set a standard for the breed which calls for a hog with a solid hoof—neither creased or split; black or black and white in color with the limit that the white shall not predominate; head medium length and face nearly straight; ears, fancy, thin and medium sized; type between that of the bacon and lard hog.

The characteristic which is most outstanding in this hog is one which is very stable. When mulefoot are mated with the other breeds of hogs the springs are almost invariably with a solid hoof and dark in color. This seems to be the case no matter whether the male or female possesses the solid hoof. It does not seem to be any great advantage for a hog to have this mulefoot, although there is no apparent reason why it should detract any on account of its presence. The fanciers of this breed have been very careful to save for the most part the best individuals

KEEPING THE POULTRY WARM IN WINTER

LAYING QUALITIES DEPEND ON GOOD CARE.

Hints for Poultrymen are Easily Accessible—Sheltered Spot Best for Permanent House—Plenty of Light is Desirable and Freedom From Drafts Is Essential.

(By D. O. Barto, Poultry Husbandry, University of Illinois).

The chief thing the poultry man has, or should have in mind when he builds a house for his chickens is to provide an environment for them that will have as fully as possible the congenial conditions of springtime, for his profits or satisfaction will largely depend on the number of eggs that he can induce his hens to lay during the months when it is natural for the productive organs of poultry to remain dormant.

It is a well known fact that chickens if provided with an abundance of feed will live and thrive in severe northern climates through the winter without any protection other than the bare branches of the trees in which they roost.

But while these hens will show evidence of health and vigor in their sprightliness and glossy plumage, no one ever heard of their laying an egg until warm, sunny days of spring arrived.

However, when new laid eggs in November, December, January, February and early March sell readily for 40 to 60 cents, and poultry feed is almost correspondingly high, successful poultry husbandry depends on changing the natural conditions for the flock as to make use egg supply during the winter months as large as possible.

Good Housing Essential.

The skillful poultryman has learned the secrets by which this can be accomplished, and while they include essentials careful breeding and feeding, probably no other single factor is of as great importance as proper housing.

The poultry keeper, whether he plans to keep only a dozen hens to supply his table constantly with a luxury which often money cannot buy, and a cheap food that will furnish a most satisfactory substitute for the increasingly expensive meats that are giving the careful housekeeper so much anxiety, or if he proposes to make the keeping of poultry one of the prominent divisions of his farm operations and wants to keep a flock of hundreds or perhaps thousands of hens, must be able to make a mistake in this feature of his work. He does dis-appoint and his are absolutely certain.

Information Easy to Get.

Much careful experimenting in the building of poultry houses has been done and the results and conclusions are within easy reach of every one interested. A great number of helpful books and bulletins on poultry house construction have been published and every good poultry journal contains much useful information on the subject. The writer has found two booklets on poultry house building of much interest and value to him and uses them in class work. One is "Poultry Houses and Fixtures," published by the Reliable Poultry Journal Publishing company, Quincy, Ill., price 50 cents; the other is "Built and Used by Poultrymen," published by The Standard company, Quincy, Ill., price 25 cents. These little books give descriptions and illustrations of all styles of modern poultry houses with many plans and specifications and estimates of cost so that with the aid of one of them the building of a successful poultry house is an easy matter.

Choose a Sheltered Spot.

In constructing a successful poultry house there are a few things that the builder must always keep in mind and these may be named in the following order: The house should stand if possible, on ground that is naturally well drained; the most desirable site is on a slope falling away to the south or east as the ground in front receives the rays of the sun first and will be warmer and more attractive to the fowls in the winter and early spring. The location should be as little exposed as may be to the north and west winds, protection being furnished by hills, other farm buildings, or a windbreak of trees or hedgerow.

The house should face so that the open front and windows look toward the south. If this is not possible the east is the other choice. One window may be placed in the west end for the admission of the short winter days and for better ventilation in summer time.

Concrete Floors.

For a permanent house, where it is not intended to be moved from time to time to a new site as is the practice with colony houses, a concrete floor is decidedly the most satisfactory. If built on well drained ground with a foundation of six or eight inches of cinders or gravel and finished with two inches of cement, surface smoothed, is makes a perfect floor for poultry houses, because it is rat proof, durable and easily cleaned. A tight board floor gives good service, but the building should rest on piers of sufficient height to allow dogs and cats to get under or it will become a harbor for rats and other vermin which will be a serious menace to the poultry yard. The only advantage of the earth floor is cheapness. If the soil is dry and

DECREASED MILK FLOW CAUSED BY APPLES

Only the Best Feed and Care Can Bring Cows Back to Their Former Healthy Condition.

J. E. D. Lake, Zurich, Illinois, makes the following inquiry: "I have milked a herd of nine cows about six months. Within the last two or three weeks their production has dropped off about one-half—so much that it hardly pays to milk them. They have fairly good blue grass pasture, which has not been eaten close at any time this summer, and I am feeding them corn fodder in the barn at evening, and some new ear corn in the morning. Is the sudden dropping off caused by improper feeding? Part of the pasture is an old orchard. Does eating too many apples tend to dry up cows? There is also a muddy pond in the pasture. Would drinking this cause cows to dry up? Is there any way to bring the cows back to their former production?"

The difficulty which this correspondent has experienced with his cows drying up suddenly is undoubtedly caused by their eating too many apples. I have known cows running in an orchard to get too many apples immediately after a wind storm, which resulted in a great shrinkage in the flow of milk. While a few apples are not injurious to cows, a large amount eaten at one time is. Corn silage is a most excellent succulent feed for dairy cows, yet if they get to a pile of silage they are apt to overeat and as a result have a great shrinkage in the flow of milk. This is not because silage is bad food for them, but because the excessive amount sets up digestive disorders.

To bring cows back to their original flow during that lactation period is a very difficult thing, no matter what the cause of the shrinkage has been. The only thing that can be done is to give them the best of feed and care possible. Undoubtedly this correspondent is feeding too much corn for an ideal ration for dairy cows, although I think an excess of apples at irregular intervals is the chief cause of the cows shrinking in flow.

I would certainly not advise this correspondent to give up the dairy business simply because of this difficulty he has experienced. If he is properly situated to conduct a dairy farm, has a herd of efficient cows, cares for them properly, and raises their light crops there is certainly money in the dairy business in his locality.—Prof. W. J. Fraser, University of Illinois, in Breeder's Gazette.

kept some inches higher inside the house than it is on the outside it may be made to serve fairly well, but each year the upper layer to the depth of six or eight inches should be removed and replaced by fresh earth.

An article following next week will tell proper dimensions, cost, etc.

MARRIAGE BY FORCE.

Greenland Youths Have a Rough Way of Showing Their Love.

The courtship and marriage customs among the Greenlanders were in early times simple and unceremonious. When a lovelorn youth made up his mind as to the girl he wanted to adorn and be useful in his hut of ice or snow he went to her house and dragged her forcibly to his own domain, where she was expected to stay without any further marriage ceremony.

If an affluent bridegroom he would perhaps soothe her lacerated feelings by presenting her with a new lamp or some other article of household utility. No matter how willing and eager the bride was to marry a young man, Eskimo etiquette demanded that she should resist every attempt to drag her to her new home, and she must weep and wail bitterly once she was there. Indeed, she must continue to weep and wail for some days, run to her own home, only to be dragged back again.

It is said that this extremely simple marriage ceremony is the only one still in use on the east coast of Greenland, and the laws governing divorce are as informal as the laws of marriage.—London Telegraph.

TEA AS A MEDICINE.

Freshly Made and Taken in Moderation It Helps the System.

The use of tea, as opposed to its abuse or misuse, is highly beneficial to the system. There is no remedy equal to it for a tired headache. It washes out the stomach and gives it a fresh start for the next meal. A cup of tea in the early morning will often enable a better breakfast to be taken, and one in the afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock helps to complete the digestion of the midday meal.

Furthermore, it serves a good purpose in making the blood circulate more freely and in dilating the vessels of the skin, thus assisting in the elimination of waste matter. In this respect it is much better adapted than cold drinks in hot weather, particularly for those engaged in active outdoor games, such as tennis, for it makes a more efficient thirst quencher and by flushing out the tissues helps to prevent the onset of fatigue. Have it freshly made, take it in moderation, and it will never do any harm. Especially is this the case with China tea.—From "Nervous Breakdowns."

FERTILIZATION OF ORCHARDS

APPLE PRODUCTION IN THIS PORTION OF WEST.

J. J. Gardner of the University of Illinois Tells of Conditions That Will Bring the Best Results—Increase of Soil Fertility Helps Crops

Before going into the question of orchard fertilization very deeply it might be well to have a little general information in regard to the production of apples in this state and particularly in southern Illinois. The United States census report of 1910 shows Illinois to rank third in total number of apple trees of bearing age—surely an excellent position and in spite of the fact that the actual number of bearing trees in the state decreased over 33 per cent. In this respect, however, Illinois was no worse than the rest of the country, for the decrease was general.

In production of fruit for the same year Illinois did not rank within the first fifteen states, quite a drop from third place in number of bearing trees. For that particular year the states of Maine, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia outranked her in production.

Possibly that particular year was a bad year for this state and the yield was not up to normal. If Illinois had produced four times as many apples as she did, she would be on a level with Michigan in production. "Four times as many apples for the whole state," you say, "looks a good deal." Well, it might under other conditions, but not when the production is less than an average of one-third of a bushel per acre. The average for the southern section of this state as defined by horticultural societies is no better than the whole; in fact runs below an average of one-fourth bushel per tree. Union county is, however, somewhat better off than the average—they did produce a little better than three-fourths of a bushel to the tree. The value of total production of the state for that year was in round numbers $2,112,000. If the average for the state had been one bushel per tree, an increase of over $1,000,000 in the wealth of the apple growers in the state. Doesn't it look as if it would be worth while to go after those other three pecks of apples?

Of course in bringing out the particular points, I do not want you to infer that I think fertilization a cure for all low production of apples. There are a number of other factors that have a great deal of influence and must not be overlooked.

In general, orchard practice there are four fundamental operations—pruning, spraying, cultivation and fertilization. I intentionally put fertilization last because under ordinary conditions it should be the last of fundamental practices. If good pruning, spraying and cultivation does not give satisfactory results in production, then try fertilization, but it would hardly be advisable to omit the cultivation, and in its place, fertilize. Cultivation is in a sense fertilization, as it liberates plant food in the soil.

In outlining a plan for orchard fertilization the first question that arises is, "Will it pay?" This question ought to be answered from two different viewpoints, that is, from the standpoint of the crop harvest and also from the standpoint of maintaining the productivity of the soil. Either one is very important, but what most growers want is a good mixture of both. In other words, give the soil such treatment that the maximum amount of fruit may be raised and the soil maintain or increase its fertility.

There is also the question as to whether or not any fertilization is necessary. In certain sections of the country where experiments have been carried on the conclusion arrived at was that applications of fertilizers did not pay for their cost. While in other sections the application of plant food to the value of ten or twelve dollars per acre given enormous returns over the cost. It would seem that if the soil of any particular section contained a sufficient amount of plant food to produce normal or maximum crops, that the question would simply become one of making what was already there available, and supplying any possible deficiency. The point is often raised here that even though the soil naturally has enough or an excess of food available, would not the application of some chemical fertilizers be of benefit? It is hard to see why food applied in form of chemicals should be any more likely to give beneficial results than the same kind of food made available in the soil. Plant food in the soil is distributed everywhere, while application of chemicals per square foot for instance must necessarily be small. There is no doubt that food carried by some chemicals is more readily available and in some cases more readily absorbed than in the soil, but its cost, to say the least, of the injurious effect of the roll of its continual use would be sufficient for not using it.

LIBRARY BOARD HELD
REGULAR SESSION FRIDAY

Report Presented by Miss Webber Shows Growing Usefulness of the Library—500 More Books Used In October Than In Same Month a Year Ago.

The library board held the regular monthly meeting Friday afternoon. Practically all of the business was routine in character. The report of Miss Webber, librarian, indicated that the popularity and usefulness of the library are increasing for during the month of October there was an increase in circulation of five hundred by comparison with the same month in 1912. The book list as suggested by Miss Webber was approved.

Miss Webber's monthly report gives a clear summary of the work being done at the library and is printed herewith:

"Duplicate numbers of the Ladies Home Journal and the Delineator have been examined and clippings made of all articles on holidays, all suggestions for entertaining and the best material on needlework. Waldorf bindery scrap books have been purchased and special scrap books will be made as fast as time permits. The usual big demand for Halloween material was made and the Halloween scrap book proved very popular and useful.

"The circulation during this month shows an increase of 500 volumes over October of last year. This increase has been general and normal. The children's room has been a very popular resort and greater enthusiasm is shown in the working out of the card catalog game. This has been tried every year but never with such success. Halloween week two story hours were held by Miss Leora Johnson and in addition to the telling of stories an effort was made to tell the children what Halloween means in different countries and to divert the attention to some old customs rather than to mischievous tricks. About 135 children were in attendance.

Declare War on Colds.
A crusade of education which aims "that common colds may become uncommon within the next generation" has begun by prominent New York physicians. Here is a list of the "don'ts" which the doctors say will prevent the annual visitation of the cold:
"Don't sit in a draughty car."
"Don't sleep in hot rooms."
"Don't avoid the fresh air."
"Don't stuff yourself at meal time. Overeating reduces your resistance."

To which we would add—when you take a cold get rid of it as quickly as possible. To accomplish that you will find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy most excellent. Sold by all dealers.—Adv.

RATES REDUCED.
The reduction in the electric light rates requested by Mayor Schnepf of Springfield at the meeting held with the Utilities company officials were concurred by the officials of the company at a second conference with the commissioners.
The rates will go into effect on Dec. 1, 1913.

The rates will be 10 cents an hour for the first 30 k. w. hours; 7 cents an hour for the second k. w. hours and 3 cents an hour for all in excess of 60 k. m. hours used by the consumer. The old rates were respectively 11-10, 9 and 5 cents.

The rate, while still much higher than the present city rates, give a reduction of from 15 to 25 per cent for small consumers, which include 93 per cent of the company's patrons. The city charges 8 cents an hour for the first ten k. w. hours; 5 cents an hour for the second k. w. hours and 3 cents an hour for all in excess of 20 k. w. hours used.

RAILROAD NOTES.

A new time card is expected on the Alton Sunday. There will probably be no important changes though exactly what they will do is not yet known.

The Burlington third track operator, E. J. Christopher, went to Waverly yesterday with his wife for a visit with home people.
M. B. Lamb, trainmaster and Blufford Violet, road master, both of the Burlington, went south yesterday and their special motor car. It is much like an automobile for rails and makes passenger time with a capacity of six persons.

Mrs. C. J. Peterson, mother of A. E. Peterson, agent of the C. P. & St. L. road has returned from a visit with friends in Chicago.

Charles Duncan in the employ of the Missouri Pacific at Chemoix, Missouri, is home for a visit with his parents, Robert and Leta Duncan, 806 North Church street. Robert Duncan is the veteran flagman at the north Main street crossing of the Wabash.

A good one is told of a leading official in the passenger department of the Alton. When he travels on the road he naturally looks about the train to see that all is in shape. One day he was on the limited and noticed in the diner something about a table not to suit him and he straightened it out. A young couple on their honeymoon tour were sitting at the table and the young groom handed the grave official a five dollar tip which the gentleman accepted with thanks and put in his pocket. Later the young benedict found out who his supposed waiter was and asked for his money back and he had to stand a deal of merriment before he received it.

At the Car Shops.
Car number 90 with President Ramsey and other high up officials came in yesterday and remained while the gentlemen in charge looked things over in general.

A lot of tenders are now in the round house waiting for their turn to be overhauled.

Number 23 went out and behaved all right on her trial trip.

Charles Cobb of the machine shop is laid up with illness. The machine shop is back after a few days at home nursing a painful sprained ankle.

A new dump car, No. 980, has been completed and is ready to go out for business.

Some unexpected work has to be done sometimes at the shops and one not acquainted with it would never anticipate it. This new tender for No. 68 was received and looked all right but the paint had been put on the steel which was inclined to flake off in spots which would have to be removed with a sand blast which they are doing now and it will require three to four days to do it and then new paint will have to be supplied on the metal.

The drivers for new 68 are in the wood shop where there is room for the men who are fitting the boxing. The air pumps and lots of other parts are now in place and the work on the new machine is going right along and Mr. Ingruid says she will be out this month.

One would think the painting of a car not a very intricate job and yet it takes a deal of work. Two coats of priming are applied and then a specially prepared putty is used on all depressions making the surface smooth and all right. Then several coats of rough stuff follow and the surface is rubbed with stone and water till it is as smooth as glass. Then follow two coats of Pullman color, the highest grade of paint, the lettering and finally two coats of varnish and the car is ready as far as the painters are concerned.

BUSINESS COLLEGE NOTES.
Arthur F. Geiseking, who has been attending business college for the last year completed the course Tuesday and left for his home in Carlinville for a short visit with his parents before going to Peoria where he has accepted a position as an instructor in the bookkeeping department of Brown's Business college.

The J. B. C. basketball quintet will play the Virginia high school team at Virginia Friday night.
The probable line-up is as follows: Frye and Warren, forwards; Seigle, center; Butler and Doyle, guards. The team will be accompanied by Coach Clarence Fuller and Principal Springgate.

The following persons have enrolled this week, some for the combined course, others for either the bookkeeping course or stenographic course:

Lenora Robinson, Kane; W. H. DeBolt, Carrolton; John Rainey, Carrolton; Vera Nichols, Roodhouse; Roy Curtis, Manchester; Stella Covington, Murrayville; Allen McCullough, Winchester; Leo Bush, Winchester; Hunter Funk, Riggston; Emmet Miller, Jacksonville.

Mr. R. A. Belknap, district representative for the Stenotype company, accompanied by Walter Blakeley, were visitors at the Business college Thursday. Mr. Blakeley, who is only sixteen years of age and a graduate of one of the Brown's schools in St. Louis gave a very interesting demonstration upon the Stenotype.

He wrote 250 words of new matter a minute and almost 500 words of a letter which he has memorized in one minute. This is a wonderful record for so young a person especially when it is taken into consideration that the young man has been out of school only about three months.

ASKS RECEIVER FOR COLORED SOCIETY.

Declares Fidelity Beneficial and Protective League Has Not Complied With Laws.

State Superintendent Rufus M. Potts has filed a petition in the circuit court of Sangamon county against the Fidelity Beneficial and Protective League of Springfield, asking for an injunction restraining the company from doing business, on the ground that officers have failed to comply with the insurance laws of the state. The court is also asked to name a receiver to wind up the affairs of the corporation.

The company was organized in 1909, and its membership is composed of colored persons. It has policy holders in Springfield, Jacksonville, Decatur, East St. Louis, Cairo and other cities and towns in the state of Illinois. Rev. E. E. Cole of Springfield is president of the organization. A Morris Williams, a colored attorney, is secretary and treasurer.

The bill, which contains a detailed report of the finding of the persons who investigated the books, alleges that the officers have failed to maintain a lodge system and ritual as required by the laws governing fraternal societies. The company is also alleged to have exceeded its charter rights by issuing policies to children under 16 years old, when it was limited to writing policies for persons between the ages of 16 and 60 years.

The report states that an investigation of the books shows that the records are in bad shape, and in some instances it was almost impossible to determine the intent of certain acts of the officials. The lengthy report on the financial condition of the society was recorded with Superintendent Potter by Charles A. Schuppe of Springfield.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Class No. 14 of the Methodist church Sunday school at Murrayville enjoyed a social Friday evening in the parlors of the church. A "bean bag game" began the entertainment after which the ladies and gentlemen present took part in a comic reading contest. Refreshments followed, ordered from bills of fare written in the form of character. The "Overthrow of Boston" or tea to the kind's Favorite Relish" the name given to pumpkin pie. A song contest closed the games and the members of the class departed at a late hour voting the affair an all round success.

A dinner party was given Friday evening by Mrs. Helen Jordan at her home on West State street, in honor of the birthday of her daughter, Miss Edith. The party was a surprise for Miss Jordan and the guest list included twelve of her friends.

A splendid dinner was served at 6:30 and in cutting the birthday cake and various articles were won as follows: Needle, Miss Lillian Davis; thimble, Miss Eleanor Capps; ring, Miss Martha Hayden; dime, Byron Graff. The remainder of the evening was spent at bridge whist. Those present were Misses Lillian Davis, Martha Hayden, Eleanor Capps, Mary Wadsworth, Edith Jordan and Mrs. George Orear; Messrs. Dr. Allen M. King, Byron Graff, Wilfred Ayers, George Orear, Marcy Osborne and James Halley.

The engagement of Miss Lena Moss to Mr. L. S. Cook has been announced. A wedding supper will be given at the home of the bride's grandparents on West Lafayette avenue.

A banquet was given last night by the seniors of the high school in honor of the members of the Quincy High school football team and the friends who accompanied the players to Jacksonville. The spread was in the high school building and it was followed by a list of toasts, with Harlan Williamson as toastmaster. Among those who spoke were Coach Buland, Miss Marie Scott, Miss Ruth Badger, Capt. Wheeler of the Quincy team, Killebrew, and Coach Badger of the Quincy team. The members of the Junior and Sophomore classes were the waitresses. The occasion was most enjoyable and a fine feeling existed. Words of appreciation were heard from the Quincy men of the honor given them.

A very happy surprise was given Miss Gertrude Manchester and Miss Dora Conlee, at the home of the former, 300 North East street, Friday evening, the occasion being their birthdays. The surprise was planned and cleverly executed by Mrs. L. B. Manchester and Miss Mary Conlee.

The eighteen girls assembled in a body and went to the home and it is needless to say that what was an evening call by Miss Dora Conlee turned out to be a surprise for her and Miss Manchester. The evening was spent in a most pleasant and entertaining manner by games and music and prizes were won by Miss Nelle Anderson and Miss Inez McCullough. Some nice refreshments were served and in cutting the birthday cake Miss Irene Smith secured the ring, Miss Mary Conlee the key, Miss Gertrude Manchester the thimble and Mrs. Manchester the darned needle. Before leaving the guests were not thoughtless of the occasion and the young ladies received a number of gifts to happily recall the delightful event.

JUSTICE COURTS.
In Spauld Thomson's court Friday P. R. Briggs was acquitted of the charge of disturbing the peace, the complaining witness being Joseph Koresky. The case was heard by a jury and a verdict of not guilty was rendered very shortly after the evidence was in. J. Marshall Miller appeared for Mr. Briggs and State's Attorney Tilton and W. N. Hairgrove for the state. The charge was that Mr. Briggs had caused a disturbance Halloween night whereas he maintained that he was at the opera house at the time of the disturbance. He said last night that there was absolutely no ground for the charge against him and that he regretted the notoriety of being arrested particularly because people were apt to forget that an arrest did not at all necessarily mean that one was guilty.

DR. THOMSON WILL MAKE ADDRESSES IN JACKSONVILLE

International Secretary of the Sunday School League Will Be Here For Four Days the Coming Week—Has World Wide Prominence.

Dr. Edward Thomson who was secretary of the last world's congress and is now the international secretary of the Sunday School League of America is coming to Jacksonville. His history is given in Volume VI of Who's Who in America and also in the International Encyclopedia Who's Who in the World. He is well known in all civilized countries as a thinker and an orator and will make addresses in Jacksonville on four days during the coming week. He will appear Sunday at Grace Church at 10:45 a. m., at State Street Church at 4, and at Centenary at 7:30 p. m. On Monday evening at Northminster, Tuesday evening at the Central Christian and on Wednesday evening at the Congressional church. It is expected that arrangements will be perfected so that Dr. Thomson will be able to make addresses on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the colleges and high school.

No collections will be solicited but an opportunity will be given for those who wish to subscribe for the literature of the Sunday League of America.

"Remember The Sabbath Day To Keep It Holy" was a command issued ages ago and the proper observance of the day is a subject for serious consideration. It is virtually necessary for anyone to so occupy his or her time that there is no time for a rest. Those who labor should regulate their duties that they may be able to observe one day in seven for a rest day. Without a Sabbath both religion and morality would tend towards decadence. It is well to give thought to the subject and not to put it off to a more "convenient season" for what is worth doing at all, is worth doing now.

Tribute to Dr. Thomson.
The following is the opinion of Rev. Theodore Kemp: Illinois Wesleyan University, Bloomington, Ill. Office of the President, Oct. 28, 1913.

I have known Dr. Edward Thomson for twenty-five years. He is a man of unusual gifts. He is a thinker and an orator. He has done a vast amount of good throughout America. He gave to our students today his lecture on the "Immortals of America," and made a distinct and profound impression. He ought to be heard in every college and school of the land.

MISSIONARY MEETING BROUGHT TO A CLOSE

Last Day's Program One of Interest and Profit—Last Year's Officers Were Re-Elected.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Jacksonville district closed its two day's sessions yesterday and the program of Friday proved a most profitable one. Part of the morning was given over to reports and they showed that the society was in a very flourishing condition. The society pledges to raise during the coming year $3,500. The report of the mite boxes was given by Miss Ida Marsh. The memorial service was led by Mrs. E. E. McKenzie of Beardstown. Miss Santae, a returned missionary from Japan was also heard in a splendid talk. In the afternoon Mrs. G. W. Flagg conducted the devotional services and Mrs. Hattie B. Williams of Murrayville told of "Auxiliary Program Hints." A report was heard from the nominating committee and the same officers as last year will serve another year with the addition of one new officer, superintendent of children's work. This will be in charge of Mrs. N. R. Mason of White Hall. Other reports were read and the large attendance and interest made the meeting one of the most profitable in the history of the organization.

The following are the officers:
President—Mrs. W. G. Lloyd, Greenfield.
Vice-president—Mrs. R. A. Gates and Mrs. J. G. Neeley.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. Samuel Darley.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Jacob Dohm.
Treasurer—Mrs. J. I. Graham.
Secretary of Literature—Miss E. J. Thornley.
Tithing Superintendent—Mrs. E. E. McKenzie.
Mite Box Secretary—Miss Ida Marsh.
Lookout Secretary—Mrs. Josephine Spencer.
Superintendent of Young People's Work—Mrs. Mary Naylor.
Superintendent Coleman Fund—Mrs. T. H. Rapp.
Superintendent of Children's Work—Mrs. N. R. Mason.

INJURED BY FALLS.
Miss Lucy Collins of South West street had the misfortune to fall Friday morning and sprain her ankle and hip. She was carrying a bucket of water at the time and caught her foot in a strip of carpet. She will be confined to her bed for several days. Miss Collins has been a cripple since childhood, from injury received on her right side.

George Shaw who was assisting in some work at the home of his son Rex Shaw, slipped and fell yesterday. He struck the ground so heavily that several ribs were broken.

Practical Overcoats

There was a time when overcoats were either style garments or storm garments. Not so now.

The present vogue for heavy materials, such as Chinchillas, Shetlands, etc., the shawl or convertible collars, and the three-quarter or ulsterette length, so combine comfort with style as to make the most fashionable service garments. We emphasize this in the large variety of Overcoats we are showing now.

This is the logical store to buy your Overcoat, where style and price are equally as pleasing. Prices range from $7.50 to $30.00.
